Doesn't Give Support to Any Specific Merger

By JAMES R. POLK
MADISON (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles has given his blessing to efforts to reorganize state government while withholding his backing from specific mergers suggested by the Kellett task force.

Knowles hailed the Kellett plan to package 86 state agencies into 26 major departments as a "significant breakthrough" Monday. He asked prompt action by the 1967 Legislature where, he said, the final decisions on details must be made.

The Republican governor also announced at an afternoon news conference that he is starting a series of policy letters to Wisconsin congressmen on federal matters. The first letter renewed requests for restoration of $25 million slashed from anticipated federal aid for highways in Wisconsin this year.

Although the letters will provide publicity for Knowles' views on Washington issues should he decide to run for the U.S. Senate in 1968, the governor said the decision to start the series had "no political significance at all."

Knowles repeated that he is uncommitted at present to any Republican candidate for president. He dismissed a report in a Washington column that he would act as Midwest campaign coordinator for Michigan Gov. George Romney.

"There is no real basis in fact for the speculation," said Knowles. "I'm not accepting."

Probably Will Okay Year's Delay

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Gov. Warren P. Knowles indicated Monday he probably will support a proposal to defer the opening of new University of Wisconsin branches in Green Bay and in Kenosha County until 1970. Under present enabling legislation they are being planned for opening in 1969.

At a news conference in his office late Monday, the governor said he also is convinced that when the new regional schools open their doors to students, they should be prepared to offer a full four-year course of instruction from the outset.

He added, however, that such an arrangement is not contemplated in the 1965 law authorizing the creation of the new campuses, and that additional legislative action will be required to adjust the plans and to alter the schedule.

The present law specifies third and fourth-year instruction to supplement existing freshman-sophomore extension center programs in the two areas, he emphasized.

The governor added that the legislative sponsors of the branch university legislation, the communities involved and his office, had always construed the 1965 statute literally and assumed that the opening years of the new campuses would be devoted to the service of upper classmen.

That conception was abandoned, he recalled, when the university named chancellors for the two schools last fall.

"There developed then a complete change of philosophy," he commented.

"Never a Question"

"I have never had any question that there will be a specific need for four-year programs in Wisconsin."

550 More Planes Destroyed

Senator Raps Poor Security

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Richard B. Russell of the Senate Armed Services Committee said today the military is guilty of "great derelictions in security" in guarding U.S. airfields and ammunition dumps in Vietnam.

Russell said the Pentagon's planes from each other and thus announcement Monday nearly diminish damage from attack, doubling the publicly acknowledged toll of U. S. aircraft in Southeast Asia indicated a security gap.

"Our operating conditions at our airfields are not good," Russell said. "We have not installed the bunker system we used in World War II to separate parked planes from each other and thus diminish damage from attack."

"There has been great dereliction in security at our airfields and ammunition dumps which has permitted the Viet Cong to make damaging, sneak attacks on them. This must be corrected."

The Georgia Democrat said that while South Vietnamese have been used to guard airfields, ammunition dumps which have been attacked are guarded by U. S. troops. Many of the newly listed aircraft were planes or helicopters destroyed or irreparably damaged by Viet Cong attacks on airstrips.

The Pentagon said Monday that in addition to the previously announced losses of 622 attack planes knocked down by Communist anti-aircraft or missiles, 550 planes have been lost on air strips, in operations outside Vietnam or for operational causes.

The 550 planes, worth an estimated $500 million, were said to range from single-engine Army observation planes to jet bombers.

Outside Vietnam, the losses outside Vietnam included Air Force fighter-bombers which crashed in Laos while bombing Communist infiltration routes and planes downed in Thailand en route to missions in North Vietnam.

The announced toll of 255 helicopters will soon be more than doubled by adding in the non-attack categories of loss, officials also indicated.

Russell said he believes the losses of 1,172 fixed-wing planes exceeds the attrition rate for bombers.

Goldberg to Visit Southeast Asia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Arthur J. Goldberg, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, disclosed today that he is going to make an extensive trip to a dozen or more nations in Southeast Asia. But, he said, "I am not going on a 'peace mission.'"

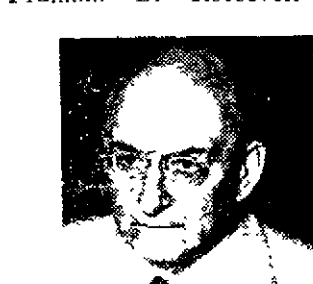

Goldberg discussed the trip and other matters today with President Johnson, who asked him to undertake the assignment.

He said it is "a fact-finding trip for the President — all political and economic development."

Henry Morgenthau, Ex-FDR Aide, Dies

Head of Treasury During World War II Grew Controversial on Foreign Affairs

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP) — Henry Morgenthau Jr., whose long service as secretary under Franklin D. Roosevelt was marked by controversy and accomplishment, is dead at the age of 75.

Morgenthau

Morgenthau, who had the job of raising funds for World War II and whose interests in foreign affairs brought him into several controversies, died Monday night at the Vassar Brothers Hospital after a long illness.

He served as secretary of the Treasury from January 1934 until July, 1945, when he resigned with some bitterness from the Cabinet of President Harry S. Truman three months after Roosevelt died. He held the nation's top fiscal post longer than any other man except Albert Gallatin, who served for more than 12 years in the early 1800s.

Asked to Retire

Morgenthau said shortly after his resignation that he had hoped to serve until the victory over Japan, which was won a month after he stepped down. He said he had been asked by Truman to retire.

Truman recalled in his memoirs published in 1955 that he had thought poorly of the so-called Morgenthau Plan for Germany under which postwar Germany would have been stripped of her industry and reduced to the status of a third- or fourth-class agricultural nation. This was initiated at the second Quebec conference in 1944, but dropped later.

Truman related in his memoirs that Morgenthau asked to go with the president to the Potsdam conference with Britain and the Soviet Union.

Truman said he replied that Morgenthau was "the sickest plane I've ever been on." He said he had refused a five-figure offer from a national magazine to write the story.

Manchester narrates it in detail in his controversial book.

He recalled that "most of these same individuals" aboard the plane had battled each other in Los Angeles at the 1960 Democratic Convention when Johnson fought hard to wrest the presidential nomination from Kennedy.

Thrown together on the same aircraft, and with Kennedy's shattered body aboard, "made tempest inevitable," Manchester wrote.

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy and the grief-stricken aides of her assassinated husband declined to sit with President Lyndon B. Johnson during the flight from Dallas to Washington. William Manchester reports in his book, "The Death of a President."

He wrote that Mrs. Kennedy instructed Malcolm Kilduff, a press secretary, to inform the reporters aboard the plane: "You make sure, Mac—you tell them that I was not up front, but that I came back here and sat with Jack."

Manchester wrote that Brig. Gen. Godfrey McHugh, Air Force aide to Kennedy, pounded the press table to emphasize his words and told the newsmen, "I want the record to show" that the four Kennedy aides "spent this flight in the tail compartment with the President — President Kennedy."

Tension, Flareups

The third installment of Look magazine's four-part serializa-

tion of Manchester's book relates the incidents.

Reports have circulated for years about the tensions and flareups between Johnson's partisan and men loyal to the memory of Kennedy on the home-ward flight of the presidential plane, Air Force One.

Kilduff once described it as "the sickest plane I've ever been on." He said he had refused a five-figure offer from a national magazine to write the story.

Manchester narrates it in detail in his controversial book.

He recalled that "most of these same individuals" aboard the plane had battled each other in Los Angeles at the 1960 Democratic Convention when Johnson fought hard to wrest the presidential nomination from Kennedy.

Thrown together on the same aircraft, and with Kennedy's shattered body aboard, "made tempest inevitable," Manchester wrote.

"And aspects of Johnson's behavior in a very understandable state of shock may have proven exacerbating, but the difficulty there was largely one of manners and mannerisms."

McHugh Mrs. Kennedy

Johnson was not himself that afternoon — no man was himself then," Manchester added.

Mrs. Kennedy and her husband had spent their last moments alone together in a private cabin on Air Force One, Manchester wrote. When she returned to the compartment, after the coffin had been placed on the plane, she found Johnson

"reclining" on the bed, dictating to Marie Fehmer, a secretary.

"Because she regarded the bedroom as hers, she did not knock," the book says. "She simply grasped the latch and twisted it. Mrs. Kennedy came to a dead stop."

Mrs. Kennedy was anxious to take off immediately for Washington, Manchester wrote. So were the Kennedy aides. They had been through a struggle, described by the author as wild, before they were able to remove Kennedy's body from Parkland Hospital in Dallas. Manchester wrote that they were afraid that Dallas authorities might appear at the plane and "kidnap" Kennedy's remains.

But Johnson was equally anxious to be sworn in as president while the plane remained on the ground at Love Field, the book says. So there was to be another delay before the oath-taking.

Mrs. Kennedy had remained at the hospital, refusing to leave until her husband's body was taken to the airplane.

She viewed it for the last time

O'Brien O'Donnell

before the coffin was closed, Manchester wrote, kissed the cold lips, and slipped her wedding ring on his finger. Then she returned to her chair in the hospital corridor, "looking like a wounded rabbit."

Manchester reports that a Dallas undertaker was so concerned about the pale satin upholstery in his coffin becoming stained with blood that he wrapped Kennedy's body in seven layers of rubber and plastic. "All this took 20 minutes," the author wrote.

Meanwhile, she kept asking a police sergeant, "Why can't I get my husband back to Washington?"

Another half-hour was to pass while a furious dispute, which threatened to erupt into a fist fight, developed over the question of performing the autopsy before taking Kennedy's body to Air Force One.

Manchester wrote that the Dallas County medical examiner, Earl Rose, appeared at the hospital and notified the Kennedy party that this was the law in Texas.

"Make Own Laws"

Various Kennedy aides, the author wrote, told Rose that the coffin contained the body of the President of the United States and said the law should be waived in this instance.

Manchester wrote that Rose replied: "There are state laws about removing bodies. You people from Washington can't make your own law."

Lawrence O'Brien and Kenneth O'Donnell, two top Kennedy aides, would not countenance the thought of a delay of several hours or even longer, while Mrs. Kennedy was waiting. They determined to roll the coffin to the hearse outside the hospital, even if it meant a fight.

Telephone calls were placed to various legal authorities to resolve the problem. Manchester wrote that Dist. Atty. Henry Wade — who later prosecuted the late Jack Ruby — advised Rose to step aside. But, according to the author, Rose refused to do so.

O'Brien and O'Donnell both testified before the Warren Commission that during the argument, rapidly mounting in intensity, they heard someone say, "This is just another homicide."

Kennedy Says Hope Was All He Brought Back From France

Confers With Katzenbach, LBJ On Rumors of Peace Overtures

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy says he did not bring any Vietnam war peace feelers from Europe, but he told President Johnson the United States was willing to announce a schedule for withdrawal of its troops from Vietnam.

Kennedy said after a White House conference with Johnson Monday, "I never received the impression that I was any recipient of any peace feelers."

This momentarily quieted, but did not entirely erase, a flurry of speculation which grew out of reports in Newsweek magazine that the New York Democrat was bringing back at least some second-hand information that might be helpful in arranging peace talks.

Kennedy told Undersecretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach Monday, "I never received the impression that I was any recipient of any peace feelers."

The New York senator interpreted this as indicating that De Gaulle was not prepared to take any practical steps at this time to get negotiations going.

But Kennedy was said to have found the lower echelons of the French government, where contact is maintained directly with Hanoi envoys, much more flexible in their approach to the problem.

Although he would not discuss his talk with Johnson, Kennedy said in an interview that his remarks in Europe that the next two or three weeks may be crucial in the search for peace were based on three points:

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The Viet Cong shelled four airfields in South Vietnam today in an 11th hour surge before the start of the lunar New Year truce and U.S. and South Vietnamese forces reported 143 Communist soldiers killed in ground fighting.

Simultaneously U.S. warplanes, beginning the third year of the air offensive against North Vietnam, got in a final day of bombing raids before the cease-fire but poor flying weather held down the number of strikes.

The U.S. command announced that a small U.S. Air Force observation plane was shot down by ground fire in North Vietnam.

Air Force One Was 'Sickest' on Return Flight From Dallas

Plans Completed For Nazi Leader's Lawrence Speech

Rockwell's Appleton Arrival Set for Wednesday Afternoon

Barring unforeseen schedule changes, American Nazi party leader George Lincoln Rockwell will be in Athens, Ohio, on a speaking engagement tonight, and will arrive in Appleton Wednesday afternoon.

The controversial Rockwell is supposed to hold a press conference between 4 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. at a site to be announced, and will speak at the Lawrence University Memorial Chapel at 8 p.m.

Arrangements for Rockwell's appearance are in charge of James Streater, student chairman of the speakers' committee of the Student Senate.

As a result of a brush with law enforcement authorities, Rockwell appeared in court at Evanston, Ill., Monday afternoon and had his trial postponed until Feb. 20.

August Altercation

The court appearance stemmed out of his Aug. 29 arrest on charges of obstructing a peace officer and disorderly conduct.

Rockwell's trial was postponed at his request after he informed the court he had no attorney.

Circuit Judge Wallace I. Karg-changes, American Nazi party leader George Lincoln Rockwell will be in Athens, Ohio, on a speaking engagement tonight, and will arrive in Appleton Wednesday afternoon.

Rockwell's Appleton speech will not be open to the public. His upcoming appearance has met with widespread criticism from various groups in the Fox Cities, state, and other parts of the country.

Dr. Charles Breunig, a professor in history at Lawrence, is spokesman for the group which protested Rockwell's appearance here.

Pickets Planned

It was disclosed today a number of Lawrence University faculty and staff will picket Rockwell's speech.

In a prepared statement, those who intend to demonstrate against the Nazi's appearance said they strongly regretted the invitation had been extended to Rockwell in the first place.

However, they said they realize that students, by referendum vote, expressed a desire to let Rockwell be heard, and supported their right to do so.

"Our protest is not intended to discourage or prevent any students from attending the speech if they wish to do so," the group of faculty and staff members said in a statement.

Orderly Protest

"However, we also assert our rights as American citizens to protest in orderly fashion against those whose doctrine we abhor," they added.

The group said in good conscience it could not allow the occasion to pass without stating publicly contempt for "this purveyor of hatred and racial bigotry."

Police Chief Earl O. Wolff said his department has made arrangements for Rockwell's appearance.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation had "no comment."

Uninformed policemen will be stationed at all entrances and exits of Memorial chapel.

Originally Rockwell was scheduled to appear on a radio program at an Oshkosh station but this reportedly has been cancelled.

Taking Precautions

Lawrence University officials said they are taking all possible precautions to ensure an orderly meeting.

Curtis W. Tarr, university president, announced last week Rockwell's campus speech would be open only to members of the Lawrence academic community.

Property accredited journalists, however, will be permitted to attend.

School Board At Kimberly Increases Pay

Bachelor Degree Instructor Raised $100 Per Year

KIMBERLY — A new teacher salary schedule, beginning with the 1967-68 school year, which calls for a base pay increase for a teacher with a bachelor degree from $5,350 to $5,450, was adopted by the board of education.

A teacher with a master's degree receives $500 above base, an item which was not changed. A step was added to the schedule which would give teachers a 4 per cent increase each year for 16 years.

Formerly teachers received a 4 per cent increase for the first eight years, 3½ per cent to the 14th year and 9 per cent for the 15th year. The increase makes maximum pay for a teacher with a bachelor's degree $8,938 rather than the previous maximum of $8,356.

District Cost

Cost increases to the school district the first year would be about $62,000, based on the current faculty. The change is an overall increase of 7.8 per cent since teachers were assured of a 4 per cent increase under the old contract, the actual new pay increase is 3.8 per cent.

The number of contract days was reduced from 193 to 190 and teaching days were reduced from 185 to 181. The head of family allowance was dropped. Teachers receiving head of family allowance in 1965-66 were advanced one step on the salary schedule.

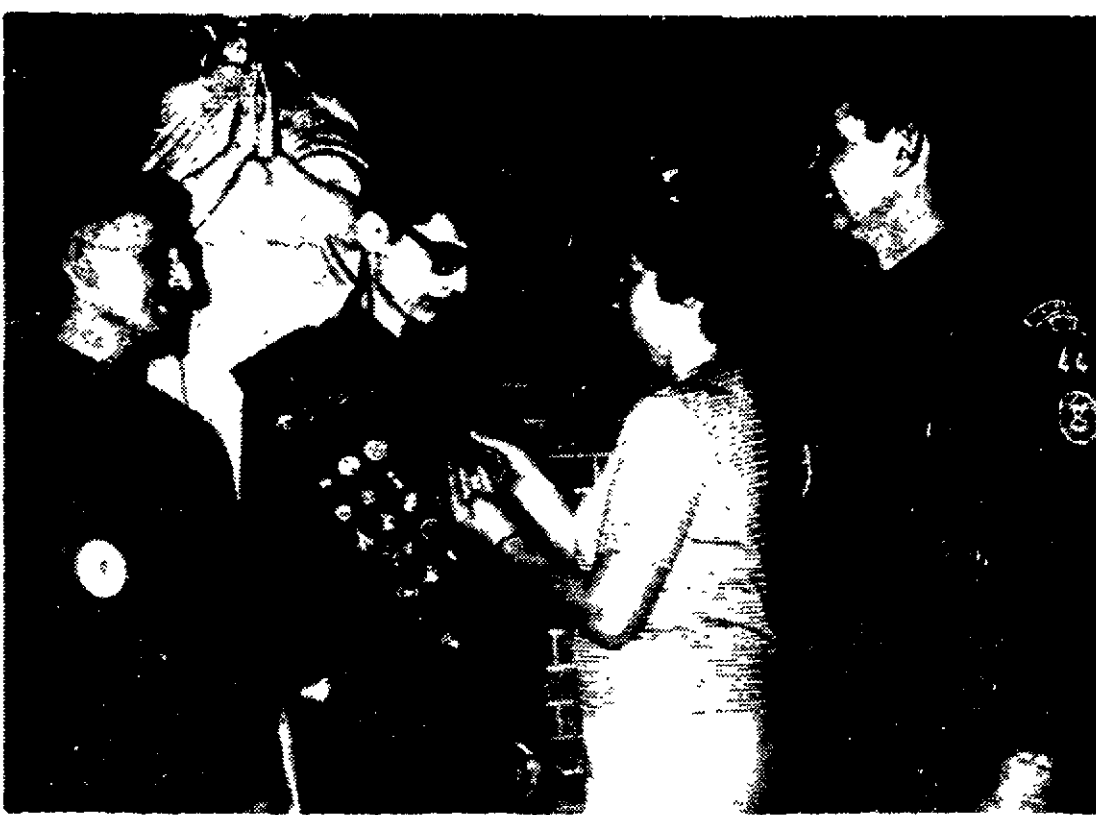

Sick leave was increased from 60 to 75 days cumulative with an annual sick leave of 10 days. Noon hour duty will be paid at the rate of $3 per session for all schools having supervised programs, but lay people will be employed whenever possible.

Attains Rank of Eagle

Handicap Fails to Daunt Tenacious Kimberly Scout

KIMBERLY—The first handicapped boy to achieve the rank of Eagle Scout in the Fox Valley District Council, and probably first in the state, under a new rule of the national office to aid handicapped, was Michael Jansen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Jansen, 141 S. Lincoln St.

Jansen received the award at a court of honor at Holy Name School Monday.

Jansen was afflicted with polio in the epidemic of 1955 and as a result lost the use of both arms. An active Boy Scout, he had no hope of achieving the rank of Eagle because it was impossible to earn the life saving merit badge with immobile arms.

One Substitute

Last year national headquarters changed the requirements to permit handicapped youth to earn the Eagle rank by passing a different merit badge course. Jansen already had achieved more than 50 merit badges, and when the door was opened to reach the highest rank in scouting, he proceeded to aim toward that goal.

Merit badges he has achieved, despite the loss of use of his arms, include archery, painting, knot tying, wood carving and fishing, all through use of his feet. Other difficult awards he has earned are swimming, public health, personal fitness and cooking.

Mike started as a Cub Scout when he reached his seventh birthday and marched up in rank to the top of that group before moving into Boy Scout work. Here, too, he moved up the ladder, refusing to let his

C. H. Zastrow to Head MD Drive

KAUKAUNA — Clarence H. Zastrow, executive vice president and cashier of the Bank of Kaukauna, has been named chairman for the industrial and individual gift division of the muscular dystrophy fund drive for Kaukauna, Little Chute, Kimberly, Combined Locks and Darboy, by Clarence Mitchell, Appleton, president of the Northeastern area chapter.

Zastrow has sent letters to businesses and industry throughout the area, pointing out the importance of contributing to the campaign in an effort to find the cause and possible cure, through research, of muscular dystrophy. Persons desiring to make direct contributions may send checks to Zastrow at the Bank of Kaukauna.

Recently, he helped reorganize the defunct Explorer Post 44 in the community by finding enough boys with interest in such a post and helping them convince adults to assist in establishing the unit. He has served as troop scribe, librarian and senior patrol leader in Boy Scouting.

Woman Hit After Car Slams Van

Mrs. Fred Kositzke Remains Critical at Appleton Hospital

A 78-year-old Appleton woman, who was struck by a truck as she crossed a street Monday night, remains in critical condition at St. Elizabeth Hospital today.

Authorities said Mrs. Fred Kositzke, 922 W. Packard St., suffered a skull fracture in the accident about 5:30 p.m. in front of 509 N. Richmond St. She was taken to the hospital in Lindy's Ambulance.

Police, who are still investigating the accident, said the elderly woman was hit by a van-type truck driven by William E. Bedat, 49, 1732 N. Elinor St. According to preliminary investigation, Mrs. Kositzke apparently was struck after the truck was hit by a car driven by John M. Karel, 38, 725 E. Glendale Ave.

Light Changed

Police were told that Bedat was northbound on Richmond after getting a green light at the Packard-Richmond Street intersection. Bedat said he stopped when he saw the woman start to cross the street from east to west.

Police were told that the Karel car, also northbound on Richmond, slammed into the small Maier today accepted the invitation of the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce to be its headliner for another in a series of forum meetings which are open to the public.

The announcement of Maier's acceptance was made by Max G. Hensel, forum chairman.

The forum meeting, expected to attract about 250 persons, will follow a noon luncheon at the Conway Motor Hotel. Tickets will be available at the Conway on the day of the forum meeting, and reservations also can be made through the Chamber of Commerce office.

It will be the first time in years that a Milwaukee mayor has appeared in the Fox Cities.

In Limelight

Maier has been in the national limelight since becoming mayor of Milwaukee, a city of 780,000 population in 1960.

The youthful-looking, dynamic-speaking Maier, who observed his 49th birthday today, is a native of Springfield, Ohio.

In addition to being a student and practitioner of government on the local and state level, Maier also has been active promoting legislation to benefit urban areas across the country.

His crusade for better tax distribution in Wisconsin gathered steam recently with the formation of the Alliance of Cities. About 20 mayors and managers of Wisconsin's more populated cities will meet at Oshkosh in mid-February to map proposals to be presented to the State Legislature.

Known Nationally

Maier is a past president of the National League of Cities and a member of its advisory board. He is also a director of the U.S. Conference of Mayors and frequently has been called to Washington to testify before congressional committees on legislation dealing with cities.

He was one of the first to suggest the federal government assist with a "model city" program. Maier frequently has conferred with President Johnson and cabinet members in Washington on urban affairs.

During his seven years as Milwaukee mayor, Maier has implemented plans for rebirth of the central city, expansion of industry, urban renewal and social reforms.

Defends Programs

Maier is no newcomer to political wars and has never been known to dodge a good fight, especially in defense of his programs. He has been an outspoken critic of town government and "tax islands."

He is a 1940 graduate of the University of Wisconsin, served with the U. S. Navy during World War II, and later obtained his master's degree in public administration from the University of Wisconsin - Milwaukee.

In 1948 at the age of 29 he ran for mayor of Milwaukee and finished fifth in a field of 13 candidates in the primary. He also ran against former Republican U. S. Senator Alexander Wiley the year the party refused to give him the convention endorsement.

Maier was elected a state senator in 1950 and served as Democratic minority leader in 1953. He stayed in the state legislature until 1960.

Donald J. Oskey Fined $60 on Driving Charges

Donald J. Oskey, 20, 3628 E. Wisconsin Ave., Monday charged his pleas to no contest on charges of driving after his license was revoked and making an illegal turn.

Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller found the youth guilty and fined him a total of $60 and costs. Oskey was arrested by Appleton police Sept. 1, 1966, in the 400 block of N. Richmond Street. He had pleaded innocent.

Dr. Tarr Will Talk On Foreign Policy

Lawrence President First of Eight 'Decision' Luncheon Speakers

Lawrence University President Curtis W. Tarr heads a list of eight speakers who will discuss American foreign policy in a series of Great Decisions luncheons during February and March, under sponsorship of the Lawrence Alumni Association.

Tarr

The public luncheon - discussions, presented annually in cooperation with the Foreign Policy Association, begin at noon Thursday at the Appleton YMCA. This year's discussion series is the third conducted by the Lawrence Alumni Association. Participants will be limited to 40 persons.

Collision Course?

Tarr's topic at the first luncheon will be "Communist China and the U.S.: Are We on a Collision Course?" The Lawrence president, whose scholarly background is in American history and political science, spent last summer in the Far East and engaged in foreign affairs talks with area government leaders.

Successive meetings in the Great Decisions series have been announced as follows:

Feb. 16 — Dr. Thomas Wenzlau, professor of economics, on "India and Pakistan: What Hope for Stability on the Subcontinent?"

Feb. 23 — Dr. John P. Plummer, associate professor of anthropology, on "Vietnam: What Price Peace?"

Lucky Double 13 at Kimberly

Kimberly-Clark Employees Reach Million Safe Man Hours Mark

There's a double 13 at the Kimberly Mill of Kimberly-Clark Corp. that hasn't bugged the people there one iota. In fact, it may have brought them luck.

On Monday morning the 1,313 mill employees reached a milestone by completing 1 million safe man hours. The mill operates 121 days without a lost-time accident. The last disabling-on-duty accident was Sept. 29, 1966.

A large banner in the mill's main entrance tells employees take about four more months of safe operation to again hit the 2 million mark.

The Kimberly Mill is an integrated operation. It starts with logs in the pulp mill and continues through the manufacturing processes to finished paper, printing papers, including magazine and specialty papers.

In appreciation of their accomplishment, the 1,313 employees will have their coffee breaks complete with doughnuts "on the mill" Thursday and Friday.

Neenah School Board Slices Final $44,000

NEENAH — The board of education trimmed the last $44,000 of the total cut of $19,000 in its 1967 budget Monday night.

By a vote of eight of the nine commissioners the reduction came from transportation, maintenance, capital outlay and student insurance fees. George Christoph was absent.

Complying with a request of the city council and town chairman that the $4.14 million proposed 1967 school budget be cut, the board had already deleted $75,000 from the budget, most of it in the instruction area.

With the additional cutback of $44,000, the 1967 budget is $4,052,148.

The $44,000 budget reduction was made in the following areas: postponing the purchase of two school buses, $12,000; postpone the hiring of one maintenance man, $5,500; landscaping at Laudan field, $1,000; roof repairs $2,500; seal tennis courts, $500; window shades, $781; senior high locks, $375; acoustical tile in cafeteria, $600; musical instruments, $1,500; chairs for resource room NHS $300; storage files, $1,000; track equipment $4,344; summer school cancelled, $12,000; and WIAA Inter-scholastic Athletic insurance fees, $1,600.

"I hope it doesn't take another Sputnik for people to wake up to the needs for education," Frank Hochholzer said before casting his vote. He expressed the feeling of most other board members.

"We are delaying maintenance and equipment, that is obvious," William Burger commented. "One day we will have to catch up." To this C. Andree Pertain, chairman of the finance committee, added:

"If anyone feels the ceiling was reached in the 1967 budget proposal, I should like to disburse them of this belief. There is going to be a substantial increase in the 1968 school budget, because of many of the items we are taking out today."

Menasha Might Hire Directors

MENASHA — Without a public works director since October, Menasha could get one tonight when aldermen act on a board of public works recommendation to hire a man currently serving as works director in a central Wisconsin city.

The board has also recommended raising the salary from the previous level of $10,300 a year to $11,200.

Minutes released Monday of a board meeting held Jan. 21 show two applicants were interviewed.

The recommendation was made during an unannounced meeting in Mayor Kenneth Holmes' office. Although the interviews were announced, the minutes were the first indication the board had met formally to discuss the matter.

Counselors Day Ended up at the Menasha Elks Club Monday night after a day of touring valley industries. The program was designed to acquaint high school counselors with the job opportunities in the Fox Cities. Seated, from left, are A. P. Engebretson, Wisconsin State Employment Service, Tom Wildman, Theda Clark Hospital and vice president of the Twin City Personnel Association, and Steven Karmann, counselor, Marion High School. Standing are Roger Westphal, Aid Association for Lutherans and president of the Appleton Personnel Association, and Richard Bruha, counselor at Neenah High School.

New Attachment

Outside Meter Reading Getting Appleton Test

A new system of reading water meters in Appleton is being tried out on a test basis, the Water Commission announced Monday.

Commissioners gave approval for the use of a device which is attached to the water meter and extends outside the home.

It permits the reading of meters without water department employees having to enter homes.

"We have a few of them in operation now but new devices are constantly being marketed," Robert DeLand, commission chairman, said today.

Not Mandatory

He indicated the new devices added onto meters would not be mandatory.

"However, we will install them whenever and wherever requested," DeLand said.

Water department employees say often they cannot read meters in homes when occupants are away.

Each extension device costs about $16, and the water department intends to charge an overall $20, which includes installation costs.

"It may not be in a year or two — but the time isn't too far off when we will have meters and equipment which will tally the readings and bills by use of computers," DeLand predicted.

He said if the city were to convert all inside meters in Appleton today it would cost an estimated quarter million dollars.

"We are going to expand our testing of the new outdoor reading devices," DeLand commented. "Homeowners have said they like them."

A few have been installed in new homes, DeLand said, and are working out satisfactory.

Correction

A story Monday regarding an early morning accident in which six young persons were injured, stated that a car driven by James Marquardt, 24, 221 N. Richmond St., was backing out of a driveway in the 2100 block of E. Wisconsin Avenue when it was struck by an eastbound car driven by Myron Bositski, 19, rural West DePere. Actually, the Bositski car was backing onto E. Wisconsin Avenue and stalled when it was struck by the eastbound Marquardt vehicle.

Target for Reorganization Is End of June — Kellett

NEENAH — Passage of the state government reorganization bill by the end of June is the target date sought to start implementing state agency reform, William R. Kellett, chairman of the Kellett committee, told the Neenah Club Monday.

Kellett said passage by June will give them a year to make the transition from the present 85 state agencies and commissions to 26 groups before the legislation would take effect on July 1, 1968.

Kellett said state government reorganization was limited to Wisconsin. About 20 other states are in the process of reorganizing, he added. He said the biggest problem in Wisconsin has been the unwillingness to face up to the reasons for high government costs.

As an example, Kellett cited that Wisconsin was one of the last states to start using sophisticated accounting practices.

In his committee's work, he said that often they ran into the attitude of "we favor reorganization but don't touch our group."

Two of the departments which have been most vocal in their opposition to reorganization are the conservation and veterans' affairs departments.

Plans to include veterans' affairs in a Department of Social Services have already been dropped. Kellett said he felt the veterans would get "the short end of the deal" by remaining separate but that it "wasn't worth the fight" to try to convince them.

The final hearing on conservation has not yet been held, but Kellett said there has been considerable erroneous information given out as to how the reorganization could affect the conservation department.

Kellett said he did not know how much further compromise would be necessary before the final bill was drafted.

Holmes Wants To Begin Plans For City Office

Council Asked To Keep $85,000 For Remodeling Plan

MENASHA — Mayor Kenneth Holmes asked the common council Monday to act tonight to hire an architect to design expanded and modernized city offices in the present building and the bank next door. He also called for a start on planning a new library on Racine Street Park.

The mayor's city office recommendation, which carries an estimated price tag of $85,000, met with aldermen's question of where the money is to come from while one alderman challenged the wisdom of setting a second floor inside the vacant bank and using the space for council chambers.

The mayor first said he thought the project could be financed through a bond issue, but when City Atty. Richard Steffens reminded officials this would require a public referendum Holmes corrected himself to say he meant the city should borrow on bank notes.

Ald. Robert Probst estimated hiring the architect could cost about $5,000 and wondered where that sum was to be found. He and other aldermen were stern in warning against spending for purposes outside the current budget when it was adopted last December.

Probst said he feared the architect's fee "is going to be the first slice" into funds originally set aside for other purposes.

The question appeared settled after Steffens and City Clerk Harry Kind agreed the contingency fund could be used initially, to be repaid when bank notes are issued.

of the regular Home-School Society meeting.

Special features included an art exhibit, a band demonstration by Gerald Jensen, a presentation on how children learn to read by Sister M. Clementia, O.P., a talk on "You, a Member of the Family" by Charles Bodmer Jr.

Attorney's Fees Listed at $1,511

MENASHA — A bill for $1,511.02 for legal advice, submitted by Henry Hughes, Oshkosh attorney and former state Supreme Court justice, was read to the common council Monday night.

Hughes was hired as special legal counsel to the city on court battles with the Town of Menasha.

City Atty. Richard Steffens told aldermen part of the fee, which was incurred in preparing the city's defense in recent Supreme Court actions brought by the town, will be assessed against Town Sanitary District No. 4 by the court.

Renewal May Be Underway In Neenah

MENASHA — The first step toward eventual renewal in the downtown area will confront the common council at tonight's meeting. Redevelopment — which City Atty. Richard Steffens told the council Monday is entirely different from urban renewal — would come later under a separate resolution.

The approach was described by Mayor Kenneth Holmes as an outgrowth of discussions last week with Steffens and Menasha Redevelopment Authority MRA members.

Holmes used a map prepared by Victor Gruen Associates, the city's master planners, to show how his proposals differ from lines suggested two weeks ago by Gruen.

At tonight's session, the council will be asked to designate an area bounded by Water Street, Tayco Street, Chute Street, Second Street and Racine Street as the core section where urban renewal might eventually focus.

Applying for federal assistance in drawing up survey and planning data for renewal was mentioned only by inference, although the Gruen firm had urged that an application be submitted promptly.

The other half of the twin proposal as asked by Holmes would involve carving the area into three or more sections tentatively, using Mill Street and Broad Street as the dividing lines. The MRA would then be assigned one of these areas to demonstrate its ability to carry out redevelopment. Holmes explained.

This would provide the council with a sample of the work of the so far untied group, while setting a timetable and encouraging progress, he said.

Directors Named To Neenah Bank

NEENAH — Five new members have been elected to the board of directors of the Neenah West National Bank at its first annual shareholders meeting Monday night. Nine other directors were re-elected.

Named were William Lieber, Stanley Severson, Frederick Merrill, Gavin W. Young and Abbott Byfield.

Ambrose Owen, bank president, reported that deposits in the bank's first four months of operation exceeded $1 million. Owen said, "the large number of customers being served and the rapid growth of deposits was the result of having a convenient bank to serve the rapidly expanding west side of Neenah and the surrounding rural area."

Jaycees Seek Site for State Headquarters

Appleton One of Cities Under Consideration

The Wisconsin Junior Chamber of Commerce is conducting a statewide search for a permanent office site, with Appleton one of the cities being given consideration.

In a letter to Mayor George Buckley, officials of the Appleton Jaycees said the state organization is looking for land, a building or office space in this area — either donated, for sale, rent or lease.

The Jaycees said the best offer they have received to date was a building in Medford priced at $7,500.

"I am sure that a community as Appleton can better this just for prestige value," they wrote Buckley.

Progressive City

"The Appleton Jaycees feel that Appleton, being one of the most progressive cities in the state, should be the new permanent headquarters for one of the most progressive organizations in the state," they added.

Buckley was asked to advise the local Jaycees if the city would have an old building on land which the Wisconsin Jaycees could purchase.

They said the deadline for locating a state office site was March 1.

Woman Hit After Car Slams Van

truck when it stopped suddenly. That apparently was when Mrs. Kositzke was hit. Police said she was not in the crosswalk at the time of the accident.

There were several witnesses to the mishap, police said. Police have not been able to talk with Mrs. Kositzke.

Three other persons were injured, none believed seriously, in other accidents on Appleton streets Monday.

Catherine M. Cahoe, 1938 S. Memorial Drive, complained of head and back injuries when her car, which was eastbound on Verbrick Street, collided with a car driven by Rickley L. Riehl, 18, 1711 S. Adams St., which was northbound on Adams.

Miss Mary Schmidt, 1741 N. Appleton St., was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital by Larry's Ambulance about 12:45 p.m. Monday after the car in which she was riding was involved in an accident at Douglas and Summer streets.

The girl reportedly suffered head and knee lacerations. She was treated and released from the hospital.

She was in a car driven by Eugene E. Schmit, 44, also of 1741 N. Appleton St., who was northbound on Douglas when his auto collided with an eastbound car driven by Donna A. Remter, 304 W. Marquette St. The Appleton woman suffered minor injuries, police said.

Kiwanis Club to Hear Kellett Group Progress

Abbott Byfield will talk on current activities of the Kellett Commission at the noon luncheon meeting of the Appleton Kiwanis Club Wednesday, according to Fred Heinrich, chairman.

This committee was organized by Gov. Knowles to investigate and make recommendations for improving the administration of state government.

at the concert by Jean - Paul Sevilla Saturday at Menasha High School.

The piano was distressingly out of tune at the beginning of the concert and became worse throughout the evening, a situation which must have upset some of the artist's calculations and may have dampened his spirits as well.

The concert, one in the series presented by the Neenah - Menasha Community Concert Association, varied from the drama of Beethoven's Opus 57 Sonata to the simplicity of Mozart and Schubert.

Sevilla created many fine tonal effects, notably in quiet passages and movements. His technique was generally adequate, especially during the demanding Brahms - Handel variations which concluded the program.

There were, however, some lapses. Scale passages in the Schubert Impromptu were spotty and a tendency to overpedal most everything caused a lack of crispness and sparkle which would have made a work like the Mozart Variation a delight instead of the somewhat pedestrian performance heard.

Missing Element

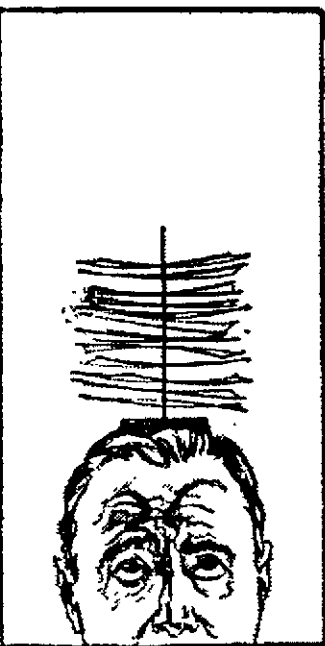

Another element missed was the rhythmic tension and breadth. There was a tendency to hurry through climactic points rather than to dwell on them, an effect which marred an otherwise intelligent performance of the Brahms - Handel Variations and a careful reading of the Beethoven Sonata.

Sevilla obviously knows the music well and follows the composer's markings without distortion but there is a spark of rhythmic life missing in his

15-Year-Old Admits Thefts at Restaurant

KIMBERLY — Police apprehended a 15-year-old village youth who has admitted the theft of assorted candy, gum and cigarettes from Curt and Clean's Restaurant, operated by Curt Hunsinger, 109 S. Main St.

The items, together with keys to the building, were taken sometime Saturday while the owners worked in the back. The case has been turned over to the welfare department for action.

Special Worship

Lenten Service Hours Planned for Appleton

The 40 days of Lent, recognized by Christians the world over, are observed in memory of Christ's passion and death. This is a period of penitence, and contemplation set aside before Holy Week and Easter.

Times of special services have been announced by many of Appleton's churches.

Protestant churches which have announced their special Lenten services include the Emmanuel Evangelical United Brethren Church, which will have midweek services at 7 p.m. Wednesdays together with First Methodist Church on a rotation basis with the first service set at Emmanuel.

Ash Wednesday Services

First Congregational will have Ash Wednesday services at 7:30 p.m. At 6 p.m. each Thursday, beginning Feb. 16 Lenten programs are scheduled. The Bristol Church (England) Youth Club will present a passion play, "A Man Dies," the first Thursday. The Chancel Choir of Green Bay will have a program Feb. 23; a panel discussion, an address and an outline of plans of the new church are on the last three weeks. All programs will begin with a family potluck supper.

St. James Methodist will have 7:30 p.m. Ash Wednesday service with the Rev. James Vahey, pastor, officiating. Guest ministers will conduct the 7:30 p.m. Thursday services which will begin Feb. 16.

Memorial Presbyterian Ash Wednesday service will be at 8 p.m., with the theme, "Do You Not Yet Understand?" Sunday evening discussion groups are also scheduled.

Mid-Week Services

Lutheran churches will have mid-week Lenten services beginning Ash Wednesday, unless otherwise stated.

"A Cross to Glory" will be the general theme of the Faith and Good Shepherd churches, at 7 p.m. each Wednesday through March 15. Faith will also have an evening service at 6:30 p.m. Thursday. Local Missouri Synod Lutheran pulpits will be exchanged by five pastors.

Wisconsin synod churches have announced the following schedule: Bethany, at 7:30 p.m.; Mt. Olive at 7:30 p.m. with the theme, "Profiles of the Passion;" St. Matthew, at 6 and 7:30 p.m. dealing with "The Seven Words of Jesus from the Cross;" and St. Paul, at 5:30 and 7:30 p.m. on "The Servant of the Lord and Old Testament Prophecies;" Riverview will have 7 p.m. Tuesday services with the Rev. David Worgull, Menasha, as guest pastor.

Lutheran Services

American Lutheran Churches (ALC) have set services as follows: First English, at 6 p.m. Wednesdays and 7 p.m. Thursdays with the general theme, "Christ and His Disciples, Then and Now;" Grace, at 5:30 and 7:30 p.m. on "The Life and Death Struggles of Jesus in His Day;" Prince of Peace, 7 p.m.; and Zion, at 7 p.m. Wednesdays and Thursdays on "The Suffering Saviour."

The three Lutheran Churches in America (LCA) have the following services: Our Redeemer, 7 p.m. on "The Apostle's Creed;" Our Saviour, 7:30 p.m. on "In Our Stead;" and Trinity, at 7 p.m. with the theme, "His Mind and Ours," dealing with the significant teachings of Christ.

All Saints' Episcopal Church will have communion and breakfast at 7 a.m., evening prayer in the chapel at 5:15 p.m. and communion at 5:30 p.m. in the church Wednesday.

Catholics are to observe fasting and abstinence Ash Wednesday and Good Friday and abstinence only all Fridays of lent.

Ash distribution will be as follows: after all the masses at Sacred Heart; after the 8 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. masses and after 7:30 p.m. devotions at St. Thomas More; after all the masses and at 3 p.m. and after the 7:30 p.m. devotions at St. Joseph; after the 7 p.m. mass at St. Bernard; and after the 8 a.m. and 5:15 p.m. mass and at 3 p.m. and after the 7:30 p.m. devotions at St. Therese.

Outagamie to Test 27 Civil Defense Sirens In County Thursday

Individual tests of each of the 27 Civil Defense sirens in Outagamie County will be conducted Thursday, according to Howard Rathbun, CD director. Installation of new radio equipment which will control the warning sirens makes the testing necessary, Rathbun said.

The director also announced that the sirens will be sounded for three to five minutes during the usual test period noon Saturday.

Lawrence, IPC Share Grant of 3M Company

Two Appleton education institutions will share in the $23,000 grant to Wisconsin schools as part of 3 M Company's annual aid-to-education program.

The Institute of Paper Chemistry will receive a $3,500 technical grant-in-aid, and Lawrence University, $1,000 from the St. Paul, Minn. firm for one or more non-technical undergraduate scholarships, as the college chooses.

Lawrence also will receive $500 for a special physics program of which the university gets $200 and an outstanding sophomore or junior planning a career in physics $300.

Nationwide, 3 M will give $420,000 in cash during the 1967-68 academic year to schools and institutions in 29 states, Germany and the Netherlands for scholarships, fellowships, grants-in-aid and other special programs.

Man Hospitalized

Clarence Hartung, 57, 1916 N. Lawe St., was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital in Larry's Ambulance about 7:30 a.m. today after he experienced difficulty breathing.

Use an Empty Shoebox For a Map Holder

BY CAPPY DICK

An interesting hobby for boys and girls that can have considerable practical value for the whole family is the collecting of road maps. These are lots of fun to spread out and look at because each one, usually limited to a single state, shows many towns and villages that may not be shown on the maps in an atlas. It also shows all the highways. Such maps may prove to be useful to Dad and others in the family.

A neat way of keeping the collection together is to use a holder made from two shoe boxes. This may be decorated by pasting travel scenes on the outside as the boy has done in Figure 2.

If the folded maps are placed in alphabetical order it will be easy to select any desired one from the collection. Of course, it should be returned to its proper place when you have finished using it.

Remove the bottom from one shoe box and tape the two boxes together as in Figure 1. Cut away part of the edge of the top portion, also as shows in Figure 1.

Cover the outside with travel

Bill Garrett To Report On 'Alaska'
BY TV SCOUT
6:30-7:30 Channel 2-12 — BEST BET — There is some stunning photography in Alaska, a National Geographic Special in which W. E. (Bill) Garrett, one of the magazine's editors, his pretty wife Lucy and their teen-aged sons, Mike and Kenny, plus their St. Bernard, Brandy, vacation in the 49th state.

6:30-7:30 Channel 11-6-9 — Vic Morrow's good acting makes Combat a pretty tense show. As Sergeant Saunders, he is captured by the Germans and sent to a prison camp.

6:30-7:30 Channel 5-4 — Teh Girl From U.N.C.L.E. starts like "The Picture of Dorian Gray" with a woman aging from the 20's to the 80's, as she calls U.N.C.L.E. headquarters to warn of a plot against the wife of the premier of an Asian country.

7:30-8 Channel 5-4 — Once again it's the dialogue rather than the contrived plot which gives Occasional Wife its memorable moments. In this bit of silliness, Michael Callan and Patricia Harty must become Kangaroo and Kangarette to please his boss.

7:30-8:30 Channel 2-7-12 — Lu Lu True-Blue is none other than Edie Adams on The Red Skelton Hour, and she is a sharpshoot-dish not to be missed. The lady turns up in a Sheriff Dead-eye sketch, one of the funniest of the season.

7:30-8:30 Channels 11-6-9 — "Genesis" on The Invaders sounds like a plot for Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea. Seems a motorcycle policeman goes off his rocker (wheels?) when he stops an old station wagon on a beach road.

8:00 Channel 5-4 — "Under Ten Flags" is the Tuesday Night at the Movies offering, and it's a splashy war adventure not to be missed by sea buffs. Van Heflin is the central character, a German commander of a surface raider which sails under any flag that is handy. His object is to sneak up on an unsuspecting merchant ship and take over the cargo and crew. His exploits are sailing high until he runs into Charles Laughton, a British admiral who won't say die.

9-10 Channel 2-12 — "The Poisoned Air" — This gloomy but engrossing job of reporting tries to unveil the facts of why so many big cities in the world are choked by smog. Correspondent Daniel Schorr, and cameras cut through the dirty air of Los Angeles, Tucson, St. Louis, Pittsburgh, Detroit and New York — plus some foreign cities — to tell how they got that way. Better yet, John W. Gardner, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare; Sen Edmund S. Muskie, D-Me., and Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York give some helpful hints as to how the various messes can be cleaned up (REPEAT).

British Composer Found Shot Dead

LONDON (AP) — Joe Meek, composer of the pop hit "Telstar" which topped best-seller charts in the United States and Britain in 1962, was found shot dead Friday.
Beside his body in the North London recording studio he called "The Bathroom" was a 12-gauge shotgun, police said.
On the stairs outside the studio police found the body of a woman. She had been shot in the back. Police identified her as a Mrs. Shenton, aged about 52, owner of a leather goods shop above which Meek had his studio.

Miniskirt Foes Have 'Miniminds'

BOSTON (AP) — Writers who worry about miniskirts and odd hairdos now fashionable in England "must have miniminds," says the British ambassador to the United States, Sir Patrick Henry Dean.
Dean told a Rotary Club recently, "Miniskirts are there, any way, for all to see. And some are quite attractive."
"But I sometimes think a few of the people who write articles of this kind must have miniminds because they do not write about other aspects of modern Britain," he said.

Taylor-Burton Win Top Acting Honors In Film Critics Poll

NEW YORK (AP) — "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" and its stars, Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton, won 1966's top honors in a poll of 312 movie critics by the Film Daily, a spokesman announced Sunday night.
The winner drew 106 votes to 31 for the runnerup, "The Russians are Coming. The Russians are Coming."
The two supporting-role winners were Sandy Dennis and George Segal who also appeared in "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?"

Kingston Trio Members pose on a Hollywood street shortly after announcing they were breaking up their long singing career that brought them millions. They announced their reason is a simple one: The public won't let them sing anything but "Tom Dooley" (their million-dollar record) and other standard folk tunes. (AP Wirephoto)

Knowles' Contingency Fund for First Two Years Totals $25,761

MADISON (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles' contingency fund expenditures for his first two years in office amounted to $25,761, a report filed with the State Senate showed Thursday.
The report showed $4,062 for travel and expenses. Cost of running the executive residence came to $14,940, and included food, staff salaries and official dinners and receptions.
The report listed more than $1,000 to buy and mail state flags to Wisconsin men in service.
The Republican governor's immediate predecessor, John W. Reynolds, a Democrat, listed contingency expenses of $17,761.

Would Abolish Recovery Limit On Death Cases

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The old dispute about the state laws governing the maximum recovery amounts in wrongful death actions will be renewed in the new Wisconsin legislature.
Under the sponsorship of a group of Democratic lawmakers from the urban southeastern section of the state, a proposal has been filed for the abolition of any limits on recoveries in such litigation.
Under existing Wisconsin law, judgment for damages for pecuniary injury from wrongful death cannot exceed $22,500. Additional damages up to $3,000 for loss of society and companionship may be allowed, and where there is a surviving and dependent child under the age of 18 years, the limit for pecuniary loss recoverable may be increased by $2,000 for each child, up to a total increase of $10,000.

'Virginia Woolf' Film No Longer Censored

HALIFAX, Nova Scotia (AP) — Nova Scotians finally will be able to see the movie, "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" in their own province. Porvince censors, who banned the film last year because of its tanga language, have reconsidered, admitting that in the rest of Canada there was not "the kind of reaction on those who saw it which we had feared."

Packers Set Gate Record, Surpass 1,000,000 Mark

GREEN BAY — The Packers put another notch on their success belt today. . . This one for attendance.

They drew more than 1,000,000 fans for the first time in their 47-year history in a single year. . . in fact, they did it in a single season.

The attendance for 20 games in 1966, including the Jan. 2 championship game at Lambeau Field, was 1,102,635.

For the five pre-season games and the 14 league games in 1966, the Packers attracted 1,051,783 fans.

The non-league schedule drew a total of 292,501 fans, including 50,361 for one pre-season here, 84,136 for two in Milwaukee and 147,504 for two on the road.

The 14 league games attracted 759,282 fans, including 203,444 for four at Lambeau Field, 145,998 for three in Milwaukee and 409,840 for seven on the road.

Seventeen of the 20 games were capacity or capacity-plus, according to figures compiled by Packer publicist Chuck Lane.

The only non-sellouts were the All-Star game (72,000), the 49ers in San Francisco (39,290) and the Rams in Los Angeles (72,416). The largest crowd was 83,943 in Cleveland.

The Packers are virtually a shoo-in to draw more than a million in 1967. And they have a good shot at breaking their 1966 record.

The Packers already have a 138,540 start on 1967 and the home attendance again will match — and probably surpass — the 495,439 of 1966. This measures out to 633,979 in the sock for 1967.

Home attendance could be higher automatically since two pre-season games will be played in Lambeau Field this year. The Lambeau Field capacity is nearly 3,000 larger than County Stadium.

Last year, a pre-season pair was played in Milwaukee.

Vince Lombardi visited with First Wisconsin National Bank officials Monday to discuss how the bank's computer will fit in to the ticket system.

In recent years the team's Milwaukee office has collected ticket money through a lock box procedure, with money mailed to a post office box and collected by the bank. Use of a computer will simplify the system.

Lombardi said a similar operation will be put into use in the Green Bay office.

It's official: The Super Bowl game attracted a 2-network audience of 65 million persons, largest ever to see a sporting event. According to Nielsen ratings, CBS was the winner over NBC in the network battle for viewers. CBS received a 3.0 rating or an estimated 56 per cent of the audience while NBC had 17.8 or 44 per cent.

Announce Picks Friday

New Orleans Saints to Get Veteran Player Rosters on Thursday

By MIKE RATHET
NEW YORK (AP) — The New Orleans Saints will get their first opportunity to stockpile veteran players later this week in the National Football League expansion draft—and if they're as successful as Atlanta they could wind up with 18 starters.

The NFL announced Monday that the Saints would be handed the veteran player lists sometime Thursday and reveal their selections Friday under an allocation formula identical with the one used to stock the fledgling Falcons a year ago.

Under that system, the Atlanta club tapped 18 players who eventually held down starting jobs in the Falcons' first year of operation.

The Falcons will be the only team excluded from the new stocking plan with the Saints selecting three from each of the other 14 NFL teams for a total of 42 veteran players.

Each existing team will be able to freeze, or protect, 29 plays on its 40-player roster. From the remaining 11, New Orleans will then select one player.

2 More Players

After that pick, there will be a re-freeze with the existing clubs protecting two more players and the Saints then selecting their final two men from among the eight still available.

The lists will be handed to Tom Fears, the Saints' coach.

Clay 'Dirty,' Says Ernie

Cassius Declares He Humiliated Terrell

HOUSTON (AP) — Cassius Clay says he humiliated Ernie Terrell, who in turn, contends Clay was "a dirty fighter I could have whipped if I could have seen from the third round."

"I just gave him my Floyd Patterson humiliation treatment," Clay said. "I called Terrell's left jabs just flaps."

Clay won a unanimous 15-round decision over Terrell Monday night to settle the disputed heavyweight championship.

Terrell, who suffered a cut over the right eye and a "blood spot" in the left, said he saw "three of him" after the third round when he asserted he suffered the eye injury as the champion rubbed his face across the rope.

Terrell's manager, George Hamid Jr., said Terrell had an appointment today with an eye specialist to check the blood spot.

"Just Kept Holding"

Clay said Terrell was a dis-appointment "because he just kept holding and clinching all the time."

"But he had to have great courage to stay in the ring and take a whipping for 15 rounds," Terrell said. "When my eye was hurt I couldn't fight my kind of fight."

In the eighth round, Clay said he kept asking Terrell "What's my name? What's my name?"

However, Terrell said Clay said other things.

"I can't tell you all the things he said, but he called me 'Uncle Tom' and 'Negro' and said 'You're going to be messed up,'" Terrell said.

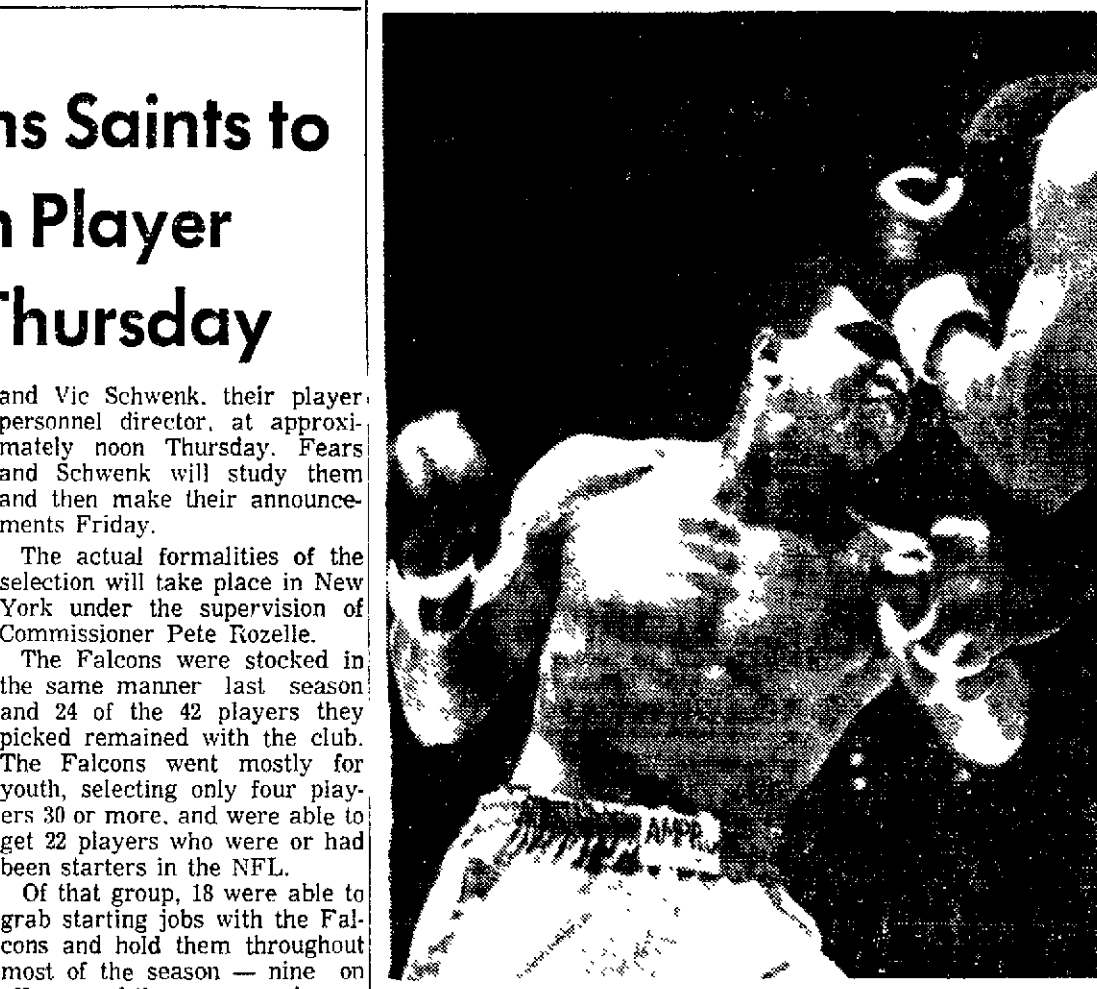

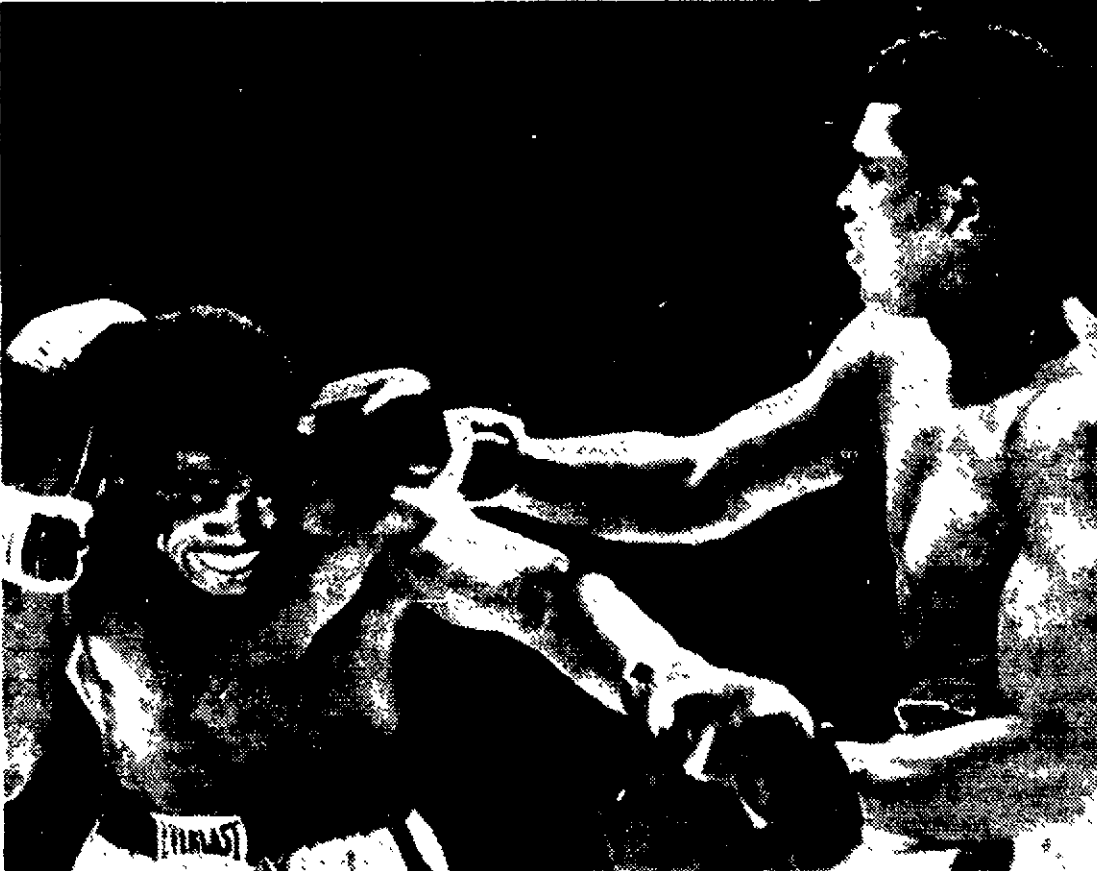

Terrell said he did not answer when Clay asked his name.

"But his name is Cassius Clay," Terrell declared.

Clay said he was happy to come through without a scratch "because it is a good test to be able to fight a dull man like Terrell who makes a fighter look bad."

Buckeyes Edge Northern Michigan

Indiana Tips Spartans, 82-77

CHICAGO (AP)—Going from bottom to top is a rough climb Illinois. Both have 3-2 records. In the Big Ten basketball race Illinois puts its chances on the line tonight at Iowa, a team currently nursing a 2-2 record and itching to get back into Big Ten contention.

The Hoosiers, who finished in a last place tie with Purdue last season, handed pre-season favorite Michigan State an 82-77 setback Monday night to climb into a first place tie with idle Northwestern.

It marked the fourth straight Big Ten victory for the Hoosiers following an opening 84-73 loss to Iowa.

Indiana hit 55 per cent from the field and had to stage a second-half rally to subdue Michigan State, which had taken a 48-43 halftime lead.

Erv Ininger led the Hoosiers with 24 points, while Matt Aitch topped the Spartans with 20.

The loss dropped Michigan State into a third-place tie with Ohio State, which is hanging on with a 3-3 record in the Big Ten, boosted its overall mark to 10-6 with an 80-74 victory over Northern Michigan Monday night.

Ohio State, which is hanging on with a 3-3 record in the Big Ten, boosted its overall mark to 10-6 with an 80-74 victory over Northern Michigan Monday night.

Aside from the Illinois-Iowa game tonight, Purdue will take on Hawaii in nonconference action. The touring Hawaii team dropped a 90-58 decision at Notre Dame Monday night.

Following today's action, Big Ten teams will be idle until Saturday when everyone gets into the act. Illinois will be at Minnesota, Iowa at Ohio State in a television matinee, Michigan at Northwestern, Michigan State at Purdue and Wisconsin at Indiana.

Detroit Hires Bill McPeak

Former Redskin Coach to Handle Offensive Backfield

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Lions of the National Football League announced Monday the signing of Bill McPeak as offensive backfield coach.

Head Coach Joe Schmidt said McPeak, former head coach with the Washington Redskins, will report March 1 for fulltime duty.

McPeak was a collegiate star at Pittsburgh and played with the Pittsburgh Steelers of the NFL from 1949 through 1957. He played in the Pro Bowl three times as a defensive end.

He worked as an assistant coach at Pittsburgh, then went to Washington as an assistant and was head coach from 1961 through 1965. Last season, McPeak was a television commentator for the St. Louis Cardinals of the NFL.

Earlier, Schmidt, who was hired last month, announced the signing of John North to work with the receivers, a post he held with the Lions last year.

Clay Pummels Terrell In Retaining Crown

Cassius Scores One-Sided, 15-Round Win, Appears to Have an Easy Road Ahead

By MURRAY ROSE
HOUSTON (AP) — Cassius Clay, the undisputed heavyweight champion of the world again after humiliating Ernie Terrell in a one-sided 15-round fight, had an easy road ahead of him today in his brilliant fist-ic career.

Unless the Army gets him first, the all-winning 25-year-old, new Texan, only has mediocre competition ahead of him, the likes of Zora Folley, the scitific if meek No. 2 contender from Chandler, Ariz.; Canadian George Chuvalo in a repeat; young Thad Spencer; and possibly — horrors of horrors — Floyd Patterson once more.

"It will be either Zora Folley or George Chuvalo next," said Clay-Muhammad Ali, unmarked as usual, "but I'm sure it's Folley. I think Folley can put up a better fight than Terrell. He's a better boxer."

"I can beat Clay," said the 34-year-old Folley. "I saw plenty of openings."

How would he do it?

"With my two hands," said the soft-spoken Folley, a man of few words.

In Late March

A Clay-Folley match might be made for New York's Madison Square Garden or Detroit's Olympia, in late March.

Meanwhile Clay is appealing his 1-A draft status, claiming he is a minister of the Black Muslim sect.

Clay, now winner in eight title defenses and six in 11 months, had predicted he would hand the 27-year-old 6-foot-6 Terrell "a Floyd Patterson humiliation beating."

He did just that in half-closing Terrell's left eye, cutting him over the right eye, and pound- ing him almost at will. He did everything but knock down the lumbering giant, who stumbled about half-blinded from the middle rounds on.

Terrell's vaunted left jab, his main attacking weapon, was completely nullified by the daz- zling foot work and head move- ments of the superbly condi- tioned Clay.

The three officials had Clay ahead by lop-sided scores. Us- ing the 10-point must system, Referee Harry Kessler had it 148-137 (12-2-1 in rounds), Judge Jimmie Webb had it 148-133 (13-2 in rounds), and Judge Ernie Taylor 148-137 (13-2 in rounds).

The Associated Press card had it 148-137, and 14-1 in rounds, giving Terrell only the second round.

Terrell was bruised under the left eye in the fourth round, and it puffed his eye to a slit by the Bruce Miller and Ron Hayek end of the tortuous whipping, scoring 24 and 22 respectively.

Big Ernie was cut over the right eye in the seventh round and he lurched about the ring from then on, trying to close in on his elusive, taunting foe, who popped him with both hands and moved like a ballet dancer.

Mike Malone Hits For 31 Points in 100-82 Triumph

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Jim Sevals and Stan Johnson continued their scoring crown race in State University Conference basketball Monday night.

Oshkosh continued its pursuit of the loop title, and the brothers Ritzenthaler added some family competition.

Oshkosh downed Platteville 100-82. Sevals scored 30 points leading Superior past River Falls 111-84. La Crosse downed Eau Claire 99-72 despite Johnson's 21-point effort, and Stevens Point held off Whitewater 75-69.

The action left loop leader Oshkosh with a 9-0 conference mark. Stout, 7-2 and in second place, was idle. La Crosse, 6-4, was left alone in third place as Eau Claire and Platteville dropped to a fourth-place tie with Superior, each 5-5.

Averaging 26.6 points in nine games, is last season's conference scoring champion and is leading the current season's tally.

Johnson had crept ahead of Sevals in the ratings after a 28-point performance against Su- perior last week while Sevals was being held to 12 points by the Bugolds' John Seizer. Johnson is averaging 26.1 points in 10 games after Monday night's action.

Dick DeZur, conference leader in rebounds last season, collected 29 caroms for Superior while teammate Ron Hartland scored 22 points to augment Se- vals' behavior. Paul Kulig led River Falls with 19 points.

24 Straight

Guy Gust scored 29 points for Platteville. But scoring honors went to Mike Malone of Oshkosh with 31 points with teammates it puffed his eye to a slit by the Bruce Miller and Ron Hayek end of the tortuous whipping, scoring 24 and 22 respectively.

Flessner Lost To Illini '5' For Season

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Deon Flessner, Illinois' top re- bouncer, will be lost the re- mainder of the basketball season with a back injury, coach Harry Combes said to- day.

Flessner fell flat on his back during the Northwestern game Saturday and was carried from the floor Combes said X-rays showed a fracture of the trans- verse process in the lower ver- tebrae.

Flessner, a 6-foot-4 senior from Royal, Ill., was averaging 13.4 points a game for the season and 9.4 rebounds. He will be replaced in the starting line- up by Dennis Pace, a 6-3 soph- omore from Collinsville, Ill.

Delay Second Run of World Bobsled Meet

ALPE D'HUEZ, France (AP) — Italy's Eugenio Monti was temporarily thwarted today in his bid for a 10th title when the second run of world's two-man bobsled championships was postponed until Wednesday.

American hopes for winning the two-man title for the first time since 1936 have been all but wiped out.

Organizers of the event said unevenness on the ice coating on the vertical walls of three of the 1,000-meter chute's seven bends had developed during the night.

The second run also was post- poned on Monday. There are 22 sleds from 11 countries entered.

Defending champion Monti, a pair with Sergio Siorpaes, led the standings after Monday's first run with a time of 58.43 seconds.

Bobcats Face U. S. Nationals

World Tourney Team Has Won 6 Games in Row

GREEN BAY — Having set- tled for a standoff against de- fending champion Waterloo, Green Bay's United States Hock- ey League-leading Bobcats next face what looms as their biggest challenge of the season.

They will be confronted by the streaking United States Nation- als, currently girding for their World Hockey Tournament ap- pearance (in Vienna, Austria next month) at the Brown Coun- ty Arena Saturday night and Sunday afternoon.

Rated America's strongest in- ternational representatives since 1960 when the Yanks won their first Olympic hockey title at Squaw Valley, Calif., the Nation- als have swept to six straight victories against USHL oppo- sition.

The Bobcats still own a seven - point lead over Water- loo and Rochester, tied for sec- ond place, but they will need a sweep of the Nationals, ad- mittedly a large order, to soli- dify their chances.

Braves Ask That County be Made to Pay Court Expenses

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A re- the state which had charged quest by the Atlanta Braves that the Braves, the National that Milwaukee County pay League and its other teams vio- court costs in the state's base- lated antitrust laws by letting ball suit has been taken under a Chicago group transfer the advisement by the judge who ruled against the Braves last year.

Attorney Ray T. McCann, rep- resenting the former Milwaukee club, defended the club's re- quest Monday before Circuit Judge Elmer W. Roller arguing that the state's suit to keep the Braves in Wisconsin was for the benefit of the county.

Therefore, the county should pay court costs, McCann said. He did not itemize the expenses.

Robert P. Russell, the county's corporation counsel, said the antitrust suit was based on state law and was handled by the state. The county, there- fore, is not liable for costs.

McCann, whose payment re- quest accompanies a motion for dismissal of the suit, said the court costs were considerable and include fees and transporta- tion.

Dushek Rink Wins Crown

Beats Appleton's Collins in Finals Of Waupaca 'Spie'

WAUPACA — A Waupaca rink skipped by Harold Dushek won the 24th annual Waupaca Curling Club Bonspiel, Sunday, by defeating an Appleton rink skipped by Neil Collins.

The first event win in the bonspiel gave the Dushek Rink its third championship in four years. Curling with Harold Dushek were R. E. Johnson, Elmer Dushek and John Hansen.

The 36 rinks competing in Wisconsin's largest bonspiel drew teams from throughout the state, including four from Canada.

A Monroe rink skipped by Nate Goetz defeated the Roy Woboril, Kettle Moraine, to take the second event title. Each of the first and second place winners of the four events were required to curl five games over a 4-day period.

In the third event, the Neal McLeod rink of Appleton defeated the Harry Johnson rink of Wausau in the finals. The fourth event was won by a Stevens Point State University team skipped by Rex Pope. The college team dominated the Harold Bammel rink, another Waupaca team, for the win.

James Malik Was Victim Of Beating In Washington, D.C.

CLINTONVILLE — The body of James Malik, 79, a former resident who was robbed and killed Saturday in Washington D. C., has been returned here for burial.

Malik, who had been operating a motel in Washington, had reportedly been beaten to death. No other details are known.

Survivors include two sons, a daughter, 12 grandchildren and a brother.

Funeral services will be at 11 a.m. Wednesday at Miladore, The Crosby Funeral Home, Stevens Point, in charge of arrangements.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 7 p.m. today and until the time of services Wednesday.

Malik formerly owned a store in the building now occupied by Lauerman's Department Store and later operated a dress shop where the Coast to Coast store is located. He was active in St. Rose Catholic Church organizations.

Two Jailed at Waupaca for Topsy Driving

Order 45-Day Terms After Motorists Can't Pay Fines

WAUPACA — Two drivers were each sentenced Monday to 45 days in the county jail after pleading guilty in Municipal Justice Court to charges of driving while under the influence of intoxicants.

Larry J. Golka, 45, route 1, Waupaca, was sentenced after he was unable to pay a $200 fine. Justice George Whalen granted Huber Law privileges.

Golka was arrested by state police, Feb. 4, after the truck he was driving went out of control and rolled over, five miles west of here on State 54.

Donald W. Heyroth, 47, route 2, Hortonville, was unable to pay a $200 fine after pleading guilty to the charge.

Heyroth was arrested Feb. 4 by Waupaca County police.

Park Grant Okayed for High Cliff

WASHINGTON — A $12,600 federal grant to help finance development of campgrounds at High Cliff State Park was announced today by Sixth District Rep. William A. Steiger, R-Oshkosh.

The grant, Steiger said, has been designated for a 58-unit camping area which is the first segment of a larger campground development.

The Wisconsin Conservation Department will match the appropriation.

Moderate Drop Bends Market

Advances Outstrip Losses During Most Of Morning Trade

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market declined moderately in fairly active trading early this afternoon.

Despite losses by the averages, advances outnumbered declines most of the morning but the balance shifted.

Analysts mentioned Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler's request that Congress give top priority to a tax increase as a cause for investors' caution.

Profit Taking
Profit taking hit the savings and loan holding companies which have led the market recently. Financial Federation lost more than 2 points and Great Western Financial was off a point. On a delayed opening block of 49,000 shares, First Western Financial dipped a minor fraction.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon had declined 1.1 to 316.5 with industrial off 1.2, rails off .6 and utilities off 1.0.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was off 1.95 at 853.17.

Steels, motors, aircrafts, rails, airlines, tobaccos and drugs joined in the retreat. Most of the losses were fractional.

Independent Labor Drive Expected by Auto Workers Unit

$3 Million Commitment Awaited In Reply to AFL-CIO Status Quo

By A. F. MAHAN

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers union was expected today to commit $3 million to an independent drive that would embrace labor organizing, social action and helping unions in difficulty with employers.

Sources high within the UAW said this would be its answer to what it terms adherence of its parent AFL-CIO "to the status quo."

The 1.4-million-member UAW came to a near break with the AFL-CIO last week over what it called complacency of the amalgamation under leadership of the president, George Meany, 73.

Under orders from their 26-member international executive board, UAW President Walter P. Reuther and his three top officers resigned from the AFL-CIO Executive Council.

Best Interests

At its April 20-22 convention, the UAW will discuss the union's relations with the AFL-CIO and the granting of executive board authority to take "whatever action in this regard will best serve the interests of the UAW."

A complete break from the AFL-CIO was avoided when Reuther, 60, kept the presidency of its industrial union department, by far the largest within the organization which Meany and Reuther created in 1955 by merging their respective American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations.

The UAW rank and file was promised a letter to clarify the action.

It now develops there may be a series of three letters, the first of which was expected to be dispatched sometime today.

Other unions with similar views will be welcome to join what one UAW source termed "our positive approach to problems for which solutions must be found."

The same source said Reuther had determined that the UAW "will assume the leadership of a progressive labor movement."

A major reason for severing ties with the AFL-CIO Executive Council was to permit the UAW leaders to take their demands to the rank and file of labor generally, rather than confine debate to the council and be bound by its majority action.

Meany Dominant

Meany dominates the council, which last November approved by a vote of 18-6 Meany's conduct of its international affairs.

Reuther had criticized the walkout of the AFL-CIO delegation to the International Labor Organization meeting at Geneva when a representative of Communist Poland was chosen president. He said it tended to tear down "the bridges of understanding" President Johnson was attempting to build between East and West.

The UAW also accused the AFL-CIO of a lack of "social vision." Reuther has been dissatisfied with racial integration progress within some of the old line craft unions which made up the AFL-CIO unions include all workers within an industry — the skilled, semiskilled, and unskilled.

The UAW has won antidiscrimination clauses in all its major contracts.

Attack on Japan Called A Mistake

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — The World War II atomic bomb attack on Japan was a mistake, Dr. Edward Teller told a University of Notre Dame audience Monday night.

"We now have documents which show that Japan was ready to accept surrender without our dropping the atomic bomb," said the scientist who is known as the father of the hydrogen bomb.

Teller, now professor at large with the University of California, said the documents indicated the Japanese government dispatched an envoy with secret instructions to Moscow to accept conditions for surrender.

Teller also said that instead of a ground explosion "killing 100,000 people," the United States could have detonated an atomic bomb in the air.

Because of Hiroshima, "many American people are convinced nuclear explosions can serve no other purpose than to kill men, women and children," he said.

Teller joined the wartime atomic bomb project in 1941 and worked until 1952 with the Atomic Energy Commission's Los Alamos laboratory in New Mexico. Later he headed the commission's radiation laboratory in California where the H-bomb was developed.

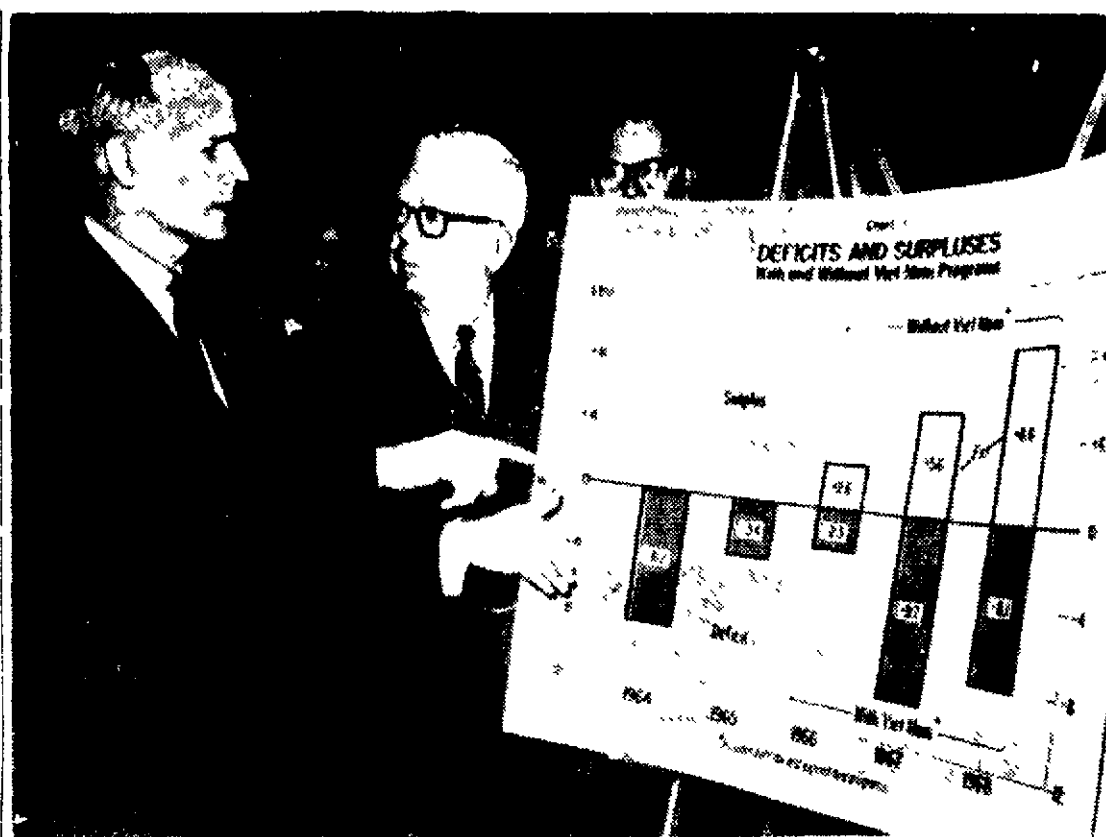

Malaria Immune To Drugs Sweeps Through Vietnam

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A strain of malaria immune to available drugs is sweeping through Vietnam and has struck more than 10,000 Americans there in less than two years, according to a report by a Navy research team.

Slow-flying planes have been spraying over friendly Vietnamese territory in an effort to kill the larvae of the mosquitoes that carry the parasitic disease, the report said Monday.

Because slow planes would be shot down over enemy territory, special spray rigs for jets are being developed at the Alameda Naval Air Station in California. This would lead to a measure of mosquito control in Viet Cong territory that perhaps would later be taken over by friendly forces.

The report said that most of the 517 cases of imported malaria in the United States last year came from Vietnam, that it has reached Guam and is moving through South Vietnam.

Sen. William Proxmire, left, chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, discusses President Johnson's economic report Monday with Treasury Secretary Henry Fowler, a witness before the committee. Before them is one of the charts from the report. Proxmire and Fowler have expressed differing views on some aspects of the report, which the committee is reviewing before submitting its evaluation to the Congress. (AP Wire-photo)

6-Inch Blanket Covers Capital

40-Mile-an-Hour Winds Beat Snow Conjuring First New York Blizzard

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An intensifying storm rolled up the Atlantic Coast today and struck the New York City Area with snow, howling winds and subfreezing temperatures.

An official U.S. Weather Bureau advisory began: "Blizzard today..."

More than two inches of snow had fallen in the city at 8 a.m. and wind-blown flakes were piling up faster in some suburbs.

Winds gusted through the city's skyscraper canyons at 30 to 40 miles an hour in a 15-degree temperature.

The Weather Bureau forecast eight inches would fall before the storm ends late tonight. Three inches fell in New York City Monday.

Commuting Slowed

Schools were closed and the massive inflow of New York's commuting millions was slowed. Slashing winds whipped the snow into drifts on streets and parkways, disrupting traffic. Air travel also was disrupted.

The Department of Sanitation launched the multimillion-dollar job of clearing and sanding New York City's 6,000 miles of streets.

In an early morning advisory, the Weather Bureau said "Blizzard today... with snow continuing early tonight. During the next 12 to 18 hours the metropolitan area will experience blizzard conditions with heavy snow limiting visibility to near zero along with winds of 30 to 40 miles an hour with higher gusts and temperatures rising only into the 20s later in the day. Snowfall will total over eight inches but there will be substantially greater depths in drifts."

The blizzard was the city's first major storm of a winter season that had been relatively calm here. It had formed off the Carolina coast and swept northward during the predawn hours.

All of New York City's public schools were ordered shut in the first onslaught of the storm that disrupted traffic and caused long delays to office-bound commuters.

The city called a snow emergency and ordered all available equipment into the streets.

Similar conditions were reported all along the Eastern Seaboard.

The storm quickly iced roads in southeastern New York State and rushed north to hit towns shivering in subzero temperatures. During the night the mercury hit -16 at Plattsburg and -12 at Watertown.

Gusts of winds up to 30 miles an hour slammed heavy snow into Washington D.C. By mid-morning the snow was six inches deep and drifting.

The snow forced nearly all schools in communities neighboring the nation's Capitol to close. The snow was expected to total at least eight inches by mid-afternoon.

Heavy snow warnings were close. The closings included the University of Maryland at College Park.

All emergency snow plans were put into effect in an effort to ease morning rush-hour traffic for Connecticut, Massachusetts and all of New England as the storm moved north.

Gale warnings were hoisted all along the Atlantic Coast

No Progress On Treaty for Canal Zone

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiations between the United States and Panama over a new Panama Canal treaty are nearing the end of their third year with no sign an agreement may be reached soon.

Negotiators for the two nations went to work in April 1964, shortly after Panamanian mobs stormed the U.S.-occupied Canal Zone. The riot cost the lives of 21 Panamanians and 4 U.S. soldiers and the two nations briefly severed diplomatic relations.

President Johnson announced in September 1965 that a treaty was being negotiated to replace the 1903 pact which allowed the United States to operate the Canal Zone by paying $1.93 million annually to Panama.

Secrecy has shrouded the negotiations at various sites since then. Officials for both sides have said that's the way they want it.

The controversial nature of the issue — and past political reaction to various proposals on how to handle the vital canal — make confidential negotiations necessary, say sources in both nations.

Space Engineers Forced to Take Shortcuts, Report Says

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Two engineers involved in the Apollo man-to-the-moon program said the pressure of meeting schedules tempts engineers to take short cuts and choose superficial answers to problems.

Their remarks, contained in technical papers released at an American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics conference underway today at Cocoa Beach, were written before the Apollo 1 tragedy and in no way referred to the accident that killed three astronauts.

But the opinions, expressed by two engineers with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Marshall Space Flight Center at Huntsville, Ala., echoed one of the most frequently heard criticisms of the man-to-the-moon program: Life at Stake.

The pressure to meet schedules — launch schedules, delivery schedules and test schedules — should not be a factor when a mistake can cause injury or death, one said.

"Because meeting schedule is of prime importance, there is a natural tendency for test engineers and others who influence his task to choose the most superficial answer to a problem," said Daniel H. Driscoll Jr., test laboratory chief at Marshall's Systems Test Division.

"In a program where millions of dollars worth of equipment is involved and where a mistake could cause injury or death, pressure to meet unrealistic schedule dates should not be a

Soviet Attitude On Peace Talks Remains Static

Kosygin, Wilson Restate Positions At London Conclave

LONDON (AP) — No shift in the Soviet attitude toward the war in Vietnam emerged today from the opening of talks between Prime Ministers Alexei Kosygin and Harold Wilson.

Informants said Wilson and Kosygin restated their familiar positions on the Southeast Asian war at the first private sessions of the Soviet premier's week-long visit to Britain.

They talked for three hours Monday in the Cabinet room at No. 10 Downing St. That was an hour more than scheduled, but there was no hint that this indicated any progress toward agreements. A spokesman said it meant they were "usefully occupied in their time."

A news blackout was imposed on the discussions, and some diplomatic commentators took this as a good sign. However, Soviet sources said Kosygin arrived from Moscow ready to press the Communist position that the United States must stop bombing North Vietnam before any peace talks can start.

Prolonged Pause

Wilson, who reportedly had consulted with President Johnson shortly before Kosygin's arrival, favors a new and prolonged pause in the bombing as a method of clearing the air for some new peace initiative. There was no hint here of the U.S. attitude. Officials refused to disclose the nature of the exchanges between Washington and London.

Kosygin and Wilson scheduled 18 hours together, which would provide ample time to work on any new initiative on Vietnam. There was little optimism that they would agree on one.

The generally unsmiling Soviet premier heard plenty of boos among the polite cheers and applause on his first day in the British capital. Groups of Ukrainian and Balkan exiles paraded with hostile banners across from his hotel.

Shouting Demonstrators

Late Monday night, after an informal dinner with Wilson, Kosygin left Downing Street to an outburst of shouting and booing from groups of demonstrators.

Ringed by 20 burly London Bobbies, the demonstrators shouted "Hungary!" Kosygin glanced at them, paused before climbing into his car, and waved.

5,000 Troops on Duty

Defoliation Aimed At Freeing Sentries

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — U.S. military planners are hopeful that defoliation of the demilitarized zone dividing the two Vietnams will release about 3,000 American and South Vietnamese troops from guard duty along the strip.

Official spokesmen disclosed in Saigon that twin-engine C123s equipped with special gear started flying over the zone Sunday spraying chemicals that kill vegetation.

U.S. troop commanders want to clear away the dense foliage in the southern half of the 6-mile-by-40-mile zone so that Communist activities in the area can be observed more easily.

Defense Positions

The principal objective, military sources said, is to enable the allies to make drastic reductions in the 5,000 troops now in static defensive positions along the zone.

Tacticians reason that if the trees can be denuded, observation of the zone can be handled by aerial observers. The troops now blocking Red infiltration routes that could be reduced to less than 2,000.

This smaller ground contingent would be in perhaps half a dozen entral points available for rapid movement by helicopter should reconnaissance disclose enemy troops headed into South Vietnam.

Snowmobile Not Meant to Vie With Automobile

MADISON (AP) — The State Motor Vehicle Department says a snowmobile could never hope to compete with a car under normal circumstances — and its owner had better not try to make comparison.

J. L. Steensland, counsel for the department, said Monday that operation of the motorized sleds is prohibited, on highways or streets. The agency's position, he said, is backed by an opinion handed down two months ago by an assistant attorney general.

Snowmobiles, Steensland said, do not meet requirements for motor vehicles on thoroughfares.

The question was raised Sunday when two Milwaukee men were arrested for operating a snowmobile on city streets when an 11-inch snowfall kept almost every other type of vehicle idle until snowplows arrived.

Burglar Flees Fury of Priests

CHICAGO (AP) — A burglar hadn't reckoned on meeting two priests when he entered the rectory of St. Brendan's Roman Catholic Church.

The Revs. William J. Quinlan and Gerald Millan surprised the man on the second floor of the rectory Monday.

Father Millan, who stands about 6 feet 4, struggled with the burglar, Father Quinlan said, while he grabbed a baseball bat and swatted the intruder a few times.

The priests said the man dropped the wallet and watch he was holding, leaped out the window into a snowdrift and fled.

Kosygin said: "So far demonstrators have been cooperative. We hope they'll stay that way."

In their negotiations with the Russians, the British are placing their highest hopes on an expansion of trade and technological exchanges. Progress in this field was the most concrete result President Charles de Gaulle of France brought back from his visit to the Soviet Union last year.

Kellett, Campus Plans Backed by Governor

By JAMES R. POLK
MADISON (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles has given his blessing to efforts to reorganize state government while withholding his backing from specific mergers suggested by the Kellett task force.

Knowles hailed the Kellett plan to package 86 state agencies into 26 major departments as a "significant breakthrough" Monday. He asked prompt action by the 1967 Legislature where, he said, the final decisions on details must be made.

The Republican governor also announced at an afternoon news conference that he is starting a series of policy letters to Wisconsin congressmen on federal matters. The first letter renewed requests for restoration of $25 million slashed from anticipated federal aid for highways in Wisconsin this year.

'Not Political'

Although the letters will provide publicity for Knowles' views on Washington issues, he should decide to run for the U.S. Senate in 1968, the governor said the decision to start the series had "no political significance at all."

Knowles repeated that he is uncommitted at present to any Republican candidate for president. He dismissed a report in a Washington column that he would act as Midwest campaign coordinator for Michigan Gov. George Romney.

"There is no real basis in fact for the speculation," said Knowles. "I'm not accepting."

Ford Eyes Tax Sharing In Crime War

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford, in what seems likely to become the GOP response to the most new federal aid proposals, says the best way to finance a nationwide war on crime is by federal tax-sharing.

President Johnson asked Congress Monday for federal spending of $50 million next year and perhaps $300 million in 1969 to help states and cities fight crime.

But Ford said "a portion of federal revenue rebated to states could be used in combination with state and local funds to greatly expand and improve local law enforcement and sharply reduce crime rates across the nation."

Goldberg discussed the trip and other matters today with President Johnson, who asked him to undertake the assignment. He said it is "a fact-finding trip for the President — all political and economic development."

Kennedy Aides Fought Police, Ignored Johnson

Air Force One Was 'Sickest' on Return Flight From Dallas

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy and the grief-stricken aides of her assassinated husband declined to sit with President Lyndon B. Johnson during the flight from Dallas to Washington, William Manchester reports in his book, "The Death of a President."

He wrote that Mrs. Kennedy instructed Malcolm Kilduff, a press secretary, to inform the reporters aboard the plane: "You make sure, Mac — you tell them that I was not up front, but that I came back here and sat with Jack."

Manchester wrote that Brig. Gen. Godfrey McHugh, Air Force aide to Kennedy, pounded the press table to emphasize his words and told the newsmen, "I want the record to show" that the four Kennedy aides "spent this flight in the tail compartment with the President — President Kennedy."

Tension, Flareups
The third installment of Look magazine's four-part serialization

tion of Manchester's book relates the incidents.

Reports have circulated for years about the tensions and flareups between Johnson's partisan and men loyal to the memory of Kennedy on the homeward flight of the presidential plane, Air Force One.

Kilduff once described it as "the sickest plane I've ever been on." He said he had refused a five-figure offer from a national magazine to write the story.

Manchester narrates it in detail in his controversial book.

He recalled that "most of these same individuals" aboard the plane had battled each other in Los Angeles at the 1960 Democratic Convention when Johnson fought hard to wrest the presidential nomination from Kennedy.

Thrown together on the same aircraft, and with Kennedy's shattered body aboard, "made the most inevitable," Manchester wrote.

"And aspects of Johnson's behavior in a very understandable state of shock may have proven exacerbating, but the difficulty there was largely one of manners and mannerisms."

McHugh Mrs. Kennedy

Johnson was not himself that afternoon — no man was himself then," Manchester added. Mrs. Kennedy and her husband had spent their last moments alone together in a private cabin on Air Force One, Manchester wrote. When she returned to the compartment, after the coffin had been placed on the plane, she found Johnson

"reclining" on the bed, dictating to Marie Fehmer, a secretary.

Left Hastily

"Because she regarded the bedroom as hers, she did not knock," the book says. "She simply grasped the latch and twisted it. Mrs. Kennedy came to a dead stop."

Mrs. Kennedy was anxious to take off immediately for Washington, Manchester wrote. So were the Kennedy aides. They had been through a struggle, described by the author as wild, before they were able to remove Kennedy's body from Parkland Hospital in Dallas. Manchester wrote that they were afraid that Dallas authorities might appear at the plane and "kidnap" Kennedy's remains.

But Johnson was equally anxious to be sworn in as president while the plane remained on the ground at Love Field, the book says. So there was to be another delay before the oath-taking.

Mrs. Kennedy had remained at the hospital, refusing to leave until her husband's body was taken to the airplane.

She viewed it for the last time

O'Brien O'Donnell

before the coffin was closed, Manchester wrote, kissed the cold lips, and slipped her wedding ring on his finger. Then she returned to her chair in the hospital corridor, "looking like a wounded rabbit."

Manchester reports that a Dallas undertaker was so concerned about the pale satin upholstery in his coffin becoming stained with blood that he wrapped Kennedy's body in seven layers of rubber and plastic. "All this took 20 minutes," the author wrote.

Meanwhile, she kept asking a police sergeant, "Why can't I get my husband back to Washington?"

Another half-hour was to pass while a furious dispute, which threatened to erupt into a fist fight, developed over the question of performing the autopsy before taking Kennedy's body to Air Force One.

Manchester wrote that the Dallas County medical examiner, Earl Rose, appeared at the hospital and notified the Kennedy party that this was the law in Texas.

Various Kennedy aides, the author wrote, told Rose that the coffin contained the body of the President of the United States and said the law should be waived in this instance.

Probably Will Okay Year's Delay

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Gov. Warren P. Knowles indicated Monday he probably will support a proposal to defer the opening of new University of Wisconsin branches in Green Bay and in Kenosha County until 1970. Under present enabling legislation they are being planned for opening in 1969.

At a news conference in his office late Monday, the governor said he also is convinced that when the new regional schools open their doors to students, they should be prepared to offer a full four-year course of instruction from the outset.

He added, however, that such an arrangement is not contemplated in the 1965 law authorizing the creation of the new campuses, and that additional legislative action will be required to adjust the plans and to alter the schedule.

The present law specifies third and fourth-year instruction to supplement existing freshman-sophomore extension center programs in the two areas, he emphasized.

The governor added that the legislative sponsors of the branch university legislation, the communities involved and his office, had always construed the 1965 statute literally and assumed that the opening years of the new campuses would be devoted to the service of upper classmen.

That conception was abandoned, he recalled, when the university named chancellors for the two schools last fall.

"There developed then a complete change of philosophy," he commented.

"Never a Question" "I have never had any question that there will be a specific need for four-year programs in

Kennedy Says Hope Was All He Brought Back From France

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy says he did not bring any Vietnam war peace feelers from Europe, but he told President Johnson the French could provide meaningful contacts with Hanoi.

Kennedy said after a White House conference with Johnson Monday, "I never received the impression that I was any recipient of any peace feelers."

This momentarily quieted, but did not entirely erase, a flurry of speculation which grew out of reports in Newsweek magazine that the New York Democrat was bringing back at least some second-hand information that might be helpful in arranging peace talks.

Kennedy told Undersecretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach earlier Monday that French President Charles de Gaulle had reiterated to Kennedy his position that there was little chance for peace unless the United States was willing to announce a schedule for withdrawal of its troops from Vietnam.

Kennedy repeated this assessment to Johnson when Katzenbach accompanied him to the White House.

The New York senator interpreted this as indicating that De Gaulle was not prepared to take any practical steps at this time to get negotiations going.

But Kennedy was said to have found the lower echelons of the French government, where contact is maintained directly with Hanoi envoys, much more flexible in their approach to the problem.

Although he would not discuss his talk with Johnson, Kennedy said in an interview that his remarks in Europe that the next two or three weeks may be crucial in the search for peace were based on three points:

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The Viet Cong shelled four airfields in South Vietnam today in an 11th hour surge before the start of the lunar New Year truce and U.S. and South Vietnamese forces reported 143 Communist soldiers killed in ground fighting.

Simultaneously U.S. warplanes, beginning the third year of the air offensive against North Vietnam, got in a final day of bombing raids before the cease-fire but poor flying weather held down the number of strikes.

Miss Roberta Scott, who lost her left leg to cancer three years ago, says she wants to go to Vietnam to encourage crippled American servicemen. The 24-year-old former beauty queen says, "I lost my leg and found my life." (AP Wirephoto)

Life Holds New Interests For Attractive Amputee

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Nearly three years after her left leg was amputated, 24-year-old former beauty queen Roberta Scott is able to look back and say, "I lost my leg and found my life."

A tall, vivacious brunette, she has returned to college, drives a car, water skis and, as she puts it with a smile, dances a "one-legged jerk."

Now Miss Scott wants to go to Vietnam to help crippled American servicemen prepare for job discrimination or other handicaps to readjustment which they may encounter.

"But I will tell them even on one leg you can kick those doors down if you want to badly enough," says the former Miss Tulsa. "It takes only one leg to climb if you really want to get somewhere."

So far, the Defense Department has ignored Miss Scott's request to go to Vietnam. Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., is working in her behalf.

In 1964, when she was a senior at Oklahoma State University, Miss Scott lost her leg to bone cancer.

"For the first time in my life I had to take stock of myself. I had to ask myself, 'Roberta, who do you want to be? Do you want to die or do you want to live?'"

"I decided I was not going to become a vegetable. And for the

By TOM STEWART
 WASHINGTON (AP) — One right that lady congressmen want to exercise is the right to exercise.

The problem, there is no women's locker room in the otherwise beautifully appointed House gym — perhaps because there are only 11 women in the House and only a fraction of those are exercise addicts.

Rep. Patsy Mink, a trim Democrat of about 40 from Hawaii, is one who would like the place turned over to the women members for just a few hours a week. But the men won't let them in.

"Their argument is that there are 424 of them and only 11 of us," she said.

The odds didn't faze Mrs. Mink Monday when she and two other congresswomen made a frontal attack. In the process they jarred gym director Herbert Bolls.

Rep. Charlotte Reid, R-Ill., 53, leader of the raid, marched into a gym anteroom with Mrs. Mink and Rep. Catherine Mav, R-Wash., 52.

By Invitation
 With straight faces, they said they were there in response to a letter inviting all members of the House to a new series of esthetics classes.

Bolls hurried them out, explaining they had already penetrated the defenses of the all-male establishment more than was proper.

"The men come out there in various stages of dress to make telephone calls and things," Bolls said.

The ladies knew they were out limits but they said it was worth it to keep the pressure on for an "equal time" gym-sharing treaty.

"We were trying to make a point," said Mrs. Mink.

"We really felt sorry for the poor man," Mrs. Reid said, "but when we heard about that letter we couldn't resist it."

burgh, the final contract was three spades at most tables. In most cases, moreover, West took three top hearts and then led a fourth heart.

Declarer ruffed the fourth heart with dummy's ace of trumps, led a spade to the queen and then returned a low club.

West could not afford to step up with the ace since then South would eventually discard a diamond on dummy's queen of clubs. When West played a low club, dummy won with the queen. South then led out the rest of his trumps.

Thrown In
 Declarer, West and dummy each kept one club and two diamonds. South then led a club, throwing West into the lead. West had to return a diamond, and South let this ride around to his queen.

It all looked very normal at the time, but when all the scores were put up, each West saw that one East had managed to defeat the contract. Each West then casually mentioned the right play to his partner.

The successful East was Bob Hamman, Los Angeles expert. His partner, Lew Mathe, started with the king and queen of hearts, followed by the ace of hearts. Hamman trumped his partner's ace!

Hamman then returned a diamond, and South was dead. Whenever South led a club West could take the ace of clubs and a diamond trick to defeat the contract.

Daily Question
 Dealer opens with one spade, which is followed by two passes. You are in the fourth seat, holding: S Q J 10 7 4. H 10 8 3 2. D Q 8 C K 5. What do you say?

Answer: Pass. Your partner must have a poor hand since he is sure to be short of spades and would have been glad to bid or double if he had reasonable strength. The dealer must have a good hand, and the hand belongs to his side. You will probably do better defending against spades than any other sort of contract.

Your Problems

Ann Advises Man's Failures More Than Case of Bad Luck

BY ANN LANDERS
 DEAR ANN LANDERS: A close friend of ours came under discussion last night and someone said, "I wonder what Ann Landers would say about this?" So I am writing to find out.

The man we were talking about is a gifted, warm-hearted guy who has a host of friends who adore him. Yet his whole life has been a litany of inadequacy and failure. He has had three catastrophic marriages and is headed for the fourth.

In spite of extraordinary ability, he has blown some choice professional opportunities. Colleagues with infinitely less talent remained safely ensconced in their jobs and this truly able guy winds up unemployed.

Can it be that he is, as some insist, just one of the world's unluckiest so-and-so's? I am beginning to wonder. What do you say?—Forum of The Twelve

Dear Forum: Each of us knows someone who fits the description — a warm-hearted, talented person with a messed up life.

Bad luck? I doubt it. Individuals who attract trouble and repeatedly fail, subconsciously set themselves up for trouble and failure. Their self-destructive drives propel them into situations they know will end in disaster. These severely neurotic people need professional counseling to gain insight into their self-destructive behavior. Those who reject help do so because self-examination is too painful.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My best friend is making the same mistake I made and I feel guilty

Landers

Why don't women realize that when a man takes a girl to a motel room, he'll always tell her she's the most wonderful girl in the world and he wants to marry her? What else can he say, for heaven's sake? Even when the girl knows Mr. Rat has had dozens of other affairs she is convinced that he lied to the others but is truthful with her.

When my friend repeated the sweet nothings Mr. Rat whispered in her car it was like seeing a movie for the second time. I knew what the next line would be.

What can I do to make this foolish girl understand that she will end up in the junk heap with me and a dozen others?—X. Perience

Dear X.: Save your breath to cool your soup, Lovey.

Some people stubbornly refuse to take anybody's word for anything. Have you ever noticed the fingerprints around a sign that says "Wet Paint"?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When a man invites a woman to go on a motor trip with him because he enjoys her company, is it proper for him to expect her to share in the expenses for the car, meals and entertainment? Of course she would pay for her own room.

I am considering taking a trip with a man who has not mentioned expenses and I think we ought to have everything settled before we start. I might as well tell you that I am opposed to paying for anything other than my room because there's a romance involved and I don't believe in spoiling a man by letting him have everything for nothing. What do you say?—Rochester, N.Y.

Dear Roch: I don't know what you mean by "everything," but I think you'd better stay home.

Rights Group Raps Rockwell's Racism

A public statement against George Lincoln Rockwell, American Nazi Party leader, and the principles of racism which he promotes, has been issued by the Fox Valley Human Rights Council.

William Herziger, chairman, said the council has chosen this time to do so because of the public interest, aroused in regard to Rockwell's speaking engagement at 8 p.m. Wednesday at Lawrence University.

"In no way should this public announcement of the Human Rights Council be misconstrued as an objection to Rockwell's right to speak at the university or as a criticism of Lawrence's decision to invite him to address the student body," Herziger said.

However, he added, with the amount of local public attention that has developed, the council feels it cannot just stand by and say nothing.

"It would be a disservice to the Fox Valley community if it did not denounce the stated features of Nazi ideology which advocates racism of the worst sort and is in direct conflict with those principles which the council is attempting to develop in this area," Herziger said.

In the statement to the press, Herziger added that the council is not fearful that the United States will become another Nazi Germany, "but we can remember too well the systematic and senseless extermination of millions of innocent people in Europe under Nazi rule."

Create Understanding

The Human Rights Council is hopeful that it can create a climate in the Valley that is friendly, not hostile, and that is with understanding, not hate, toward minority people who might move into the Valley, Herziger further stated.

"We believe that this is consistent with the ideals of our founding fathers, many of whom came to this country and even to the Valley because they were members of a minority group," Herziger said.

Protesting Rockwell's appearance are a number of civic organizations, including American Legion groups and Jewish War Veterans. Many telephone calls and letters also have been received by the university, officials said.

Jaycees Seek Site for State Headquarters

Appleton One of Cities Under Consideration

The Wisconsin Junior Chamber of Commerce is conducting a statewide search for a permanent office site, with Appleton one of the cities being given consideration.

In a letter to Mayor George Buckley, officials of the Appleton Jaycees said the state organization is looking for land, a building or office space in this area — either donated, for sale, rent or lease.

The Jaycees said the best offer they have received to date was a building in Menard priced at $7,500.

"I am sure that a community as Appleton can better this just for prestige value," they wrote Buckley.

Progressive City

"The Appleton Jaycees feel that Appleton, being one of the most progressive cities in the state, should be the new permanent headquarters for one of the most progressive organizations in the state," they added.

Buckley was asked to advise the local Jaycees if the city would have an old building on land which the Wisconsin Jaycees could purchase.

They said the deadline for locating a state office site was March 1.

$500 Damage Set In 2-Car Mishap

LITTLE CHUTE — Damage was estimated at over $500 and the driver of one car was arrested following a 2-car accident at W. Main and Adams Street about 5:15 p.m. Saturday, according to village police.

A car driven by William DeWitt, 25, Barbara Avenue, Appleton, was traveling east on W. Main and as he attempted to pass a car his auto struck a vehicle driven west on Main by Thomas Eggert, 21, 2703 N. Kesting Court, Appleton. DeWitt was charged with reckless driving.

Piano Out of Tune but Sevilla Concert Still Proves Interesting

BY ROBERT BELOW

A generally interesting program including often-played and less known piano works was hampered by a poor instrument at the concert by Jean-Paul Sevilla Saturday at Menasha High School.

The piano was distressingly out of tune at the beginning of the concert and became worse throughout the evening, a situation which must have upset some of the artist's calculations and may have dampened his spirits as well.

The concert, one in the series presented by the Neenah-Menasha Community Concert Association, varied from the drama of Beethoven's Opus 57 Sonata to the simplicity of Mozart and Schubert.

Fine Effects

Sevilla created many fine tonal effects, notably in quiet passages and movements. His technique was generally adequate, especially during the demanding Brahms-Handel variations which concluded the program.

There were, however, some lapses. Scale passages in the Schubert Impromptu were spotty and a tendency to overpedal most everything caused a lack of crispness and sparkle which would have made a work like the Mozart Variation a delight instead of the somewhat pedestrian performance heard.

Missing Element

Another element missing was the rhythmic tension and breadth. There was a tendency to hurry through climactic points rather than to dwell on them, an effect which marred an otherwise intelligent performance of the Brahms-Handel Variations and a careful reading of the Beethoven Sonata.

Sevilla obviously knows the music well and follows the composer's markings without distortion but there is a spark of rhythmic life missing in his readings, which sound somewhat glib.

The best performances were

Dr. Melchior, Former Appleton Dentist, Dies

Dr. Carl J. Melchior, 67, a former Appleton dentist from 1941-57 died at Veterans Hospital, Wood, at 2 p.m., Monday, after a long illness.

He also practiced at Suring, Freedom and Evanston, Ill.

He was a graduate of Marquette University School of Dentistry, a member of St. Nicholas Catholic Church at Freedom and the Freedom Veterans of Foreign Wars Post. He served with the U.S. Navy during World War I.

Dr. Melchior is survived by his widow, one daughter, one son, four brothers and six grandchildren. Funeral service will be 10 a.m. Thursday at St. Nicholas Church in Freedom. Burial will be in St. Patrick Cemetery, Snyderville.

Friends may call at the Fargo Funeral Home, Kaukauna, after 3 p.m. Wednesday.

struck the bridge and then shot backward for several feet. Police said the auto was a total wreck. Buss told police he did not know what happened.

Richard Borg, 26, 2220 N. Richmond St., suffered head, leg, neck and jaw injuries when a car driven by his wife, Faith, 24, hit an icy patch on County Trunk 00, just east of French Road, and overturned about 1:50 a.m. Sunday.

Borg was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital by Lindy's Ambulance. Police said the car went into a ditch then rolled over.

The sides top and windshield of the compact car were damaged.

Katherine Gosz, Shawano, complained of a back injury following an accident Saturday afternoon on State 47, three miles south of Black Creek. She was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital by Lindy's Ambulance.

She was in a car driven by Norbert F. Gosz, 51, Shawano, which was struck by a car driven by Norman J. School, 46, Roscoe, Ill.

Police said School was passing the Gosz car when his auto began sliding and bumped the Gosz auto, causing it to overturn. The School auto spun off the road. Both cars were northbound on 47, police said. Damage totaled about $350.

Mrs. Ermin Thiel's 195 Game, 520 Series Leads Brillion Bowling

BRILLION — Mrs. Ermin Thiel recorded a 195 game and 520 series for Reese-Drive-In in the Women's Bowling League at Koffarnus Lanes.

Other high counts were posted by Mrs. Pete Zarnoth, a 199 game and 507 series for Pete's Barber Shop; Mrs. Warren Belanger had a 209 game for Warren's Skelly and Mrs. Robert Mathieba had a 192 game for Jensen's Bar.

Pete's and Jensen's are tied for first place with 44-19 records.

Cites Cooperation

The pastor thanked parishioners for their cooperation in observing the congregation's 75th anniversary. He also acknowledged successful efforts by members of the parish picnic committee.

Harold Sippel was elected secretary for a one-year term appointed by the pastor were Anthony Schaffer, Oscar Pruess, Joe Anheier and Gehl.

Vollmer discussed the pending proposal for public transportation of parochial school pupils. He urged parishioners to support the referendum and inform others of its importance.

Dushek Rink Wins Crown

Beats Appleton's Collins in Finals Of Waupaca 'Spiel

WAUPACA — A Waupaca rink skipped by Harold Dushek won the 24th annual Waupaca Curling Club Bonselpiel, Sunday, by defeating an Appleton rink skipped by Neil Collins.

The first event win in the bonselpiel gave the Dushek rink its third championship in four years. Curling with Harold Dushek were R. E. Johnson, Elmer Dushek and John Hansen.

The 36 rinks competing in Wisconsin's largest bonselpiel drew teams from throughout the state, including four from Canada.

A Monroe rink skipped by Nate Goetz defeated the Roy Woboril, Kettle Moraine, to take the second event title. Each of the first and second place winners of the four events were required to curl five games over a 4-day period.

In the third event, the Neal McLeod rink of Appleton defeated the Harry Johnson rink of Wausau in the finals. The fourth event was won by a Stevens Point State University team skipped by Rex Pope. The college team downed the Harold Fammel rink, another Waupaca team, for the win.

Politicians Seek Opinions of Chief of FBI

Consulate Exchange
Bill Delayed Partly By Hoover Statement

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — In the field of spying, J. Edgar Hoover is the American version of the Delphic Oracle. Politicians make a pilgrimage to the 73-year-old director of the FBI, seeking his words by phone or mail.

Hoover sticks in the public mind while staying pretty much out of the public picture except for an occasional statement on crime or communism or, more rarely, an argument.

No one knows better than Hoover he would not have been boss of the FBI 42 years if he had played politics. But this doesn't discourage politicians, or others, from sometimes interpreting what he says to suit their own purposes.

There's a recent example of it.

Almost three years ago the United States and the Soviet Union agreed on a treaty letting them open consulates in each other's country instead of being limited to an embassy, as they are now.

More Spying
Because the treaty couldn't go into effect until the Senate approved, in 1965 Hoover was called before Congress to say what he thought of it.

He said Soviet consulates in the United States, staffed by Russians, would mean just that much more opportunity for Soviet spying and more work for the FBI.

This was interpreted by senators who opposed the treaty as meaning Hoover was against it, too. Right-wing outfits, seizing upon Hoover's words, rained letters on senators, protesting the treaty.

That same year the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee, after considering the whole problem, put its blessing in the treaty. But it still needed approval by the full Senate and it never got there.

Opposition Strong
The Democratic leadership held the treaty back, believing the opposition was too strong. Now once again the committee is holding hearings and this year the full Senate is expected to act, one way or the other.

But Hoover had never said he was against the treaty. He never said he favored it, either. What he did say was that once the Soviets opened consulates in this country there would be tougher for the FBI.

This week Secretary of State Dean Rusk, speaking for the Johnson administration on behalf of the treaty, went before the committee and made this main point:

Having American consulates in the Soviet Union would better protect American tourists there while the treaty itself would remove some of the difficulties in American-Soviet relations.

He acknowledged that permitting Soviet consulates in this country would increase the chances for Soviet spying. But he insisted the risks were small and could be handled by the FBI.

Not Against Treaty
Rusk had a letter from Hoover explaining that his 1965 testimony about the increased danger of Soviet spying if consulates were opened did not mean he was opposing the treaty.

Then Sen. J. W. Fulbright, committee chairman, produced his own letter from Hoover, saying about the same thing. Fulbright favors the treaty. But another committee member, Sen. Karl E. Mundt, South Dakota, Republican, is against it.

Mundt had a third letter from the FBI boss in which Hoover spoke of extra work the consulates would mean for the FBI. But this time the Democratic leadership seems to think the full Senate will approve.

The irony in all this is that, while Hoover was talking about the increased danger of Soviet spying in this country if Soviet consulates were opened, little was said about American spying in the Soviet Union if American consulates were opened there.

Scranton Won't Seek GOP Presidential Bid

Pennsylvania Governor Indicates
He Will Support Michigan's Romney

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — On Friday, Jan. 27, Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, the former Republican national chairman, boarded a plane at Washington's national airport and flew to a secret rendezvous in Philadelphia, with Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania.

The reason for the expedition was Morton's feeling, shared by many another Republican moderate, that Michigan Gov. George Romney's bid for the presidential nomination is stumbling.

Novak

Remembering Scranton's valiant last ditch bid against Barry Goldwater in 1964, Morton looked toward Pennsylvania.

Meeting Scranton at the ancient, musty and prestigious Philadelphia Club, Morton asked Scranton whether there was any chance, no matter how remote, that he would run for the Republican presidential nomination next year.

Scranton's answer: An unequivocal "no."

'64 Moderates Blamed

Scranton embroidered his "no" with a reasoned line of argument. The trouble with the moderates in 1964, he reminded Morton, was "proliferation" of possible candidates and their total failure to agree in time on a single candidate to take on Goldwater.

The resulting chaos among the moderates spawned the Goldwater debacle. Consequently, Scranton told Morton he was lined up solidly behind the leading moderate candidate: Gov. George Romney of Michigan.

Scranton then urged Morton to see Romney Morton immediately arranged a secret meeting with Romney in Lansing, on Feb. 1. Morton's warning to Romney: The Romney campaign is running like a dry creek and badly needs to be tuned up.

Morton suggested that Don Ross, the astute Republican national committeeman in Nebraska who engineered the departure of Dean Burch as national chairman in early 1965, be brought into the inner Romney circle. As for himself, Morton made no hard commitment to Romney.

A footnote Scranton has offered to coordinate the Eastern states for Romney, as part of a national network of coordinators. Others may be Gov. Warren Knowles of Wisconsin for the Midwest; Gov. John Love of Colorado, the Mountain States; and Gov. Daniel Evans of Washington for the Far West.

BUZ BOMBS OUT

The meteoric career of Rep. Donald E. (Buz) Lukens, the brash young rightwing Republican from Ohio, suffered a slight setback last week at the hands of a fellow freshman Republican congressman.

Lukens has made a practice of stepping on the toes of party elders. After riding the Goldwater tide to the national chairmanship of the Young Republicans at the uproarious San Francisco convention of 1963, Lukens bucked the powerful Ohio GOP organization to run for Congress last year. To everybody's amazement, he beat a highly respected state senator in the primary and went on to victory in November.

With unlimited ambition at age 35, Lukens decided to start his congressional career off on the right foot by becoming president of the big new class of freshman Republicans entering the 90th Congress.

But that was too much for another newly elected Republican from Ohio: Rep. Robert Taft Jr., who is not exactly a charter member of the Lukens' fan club. Taft began working quietly behind the scenes against his fellow Ohioan.

It paid off. In a five-man contest, Lukens didn't even make the run-off. The overwhelming winner was William Cowger of Kentucky, a liberal and the former mayor of Louisville, over Sam Steiger, a conservative from Arizona.

A footnote: The election of Cowger, who ran for Congress with endorsement by the liberal Ripon Society and the local AFL-CIO, suggests the political consensus of the freshman Republicans is somewhat to the left of the House Republicans as a whole. The other officers elected — Margaret Heckler of Massachusetts as vice President and William Steiger of Wisconsin (no relation to Arizona's Sam Steiger) as secretary — are considered moderates.

WALLACE & THE POLICE

On his recent visit to Washington to testify before the Senate Finance Committee, Ex-Gov. George Wallace of Alabama was asked to send several dozen confederate flags up to Washington when he returned to Alabama. The source of the request: Several patrolmen on the Washington metropolitan police force.

The policemen, from the most Negro metropolis in the country, not only asked for the flags but gave Wallace an earful of their problems in the most Negro city in America.

The incident affirmed the rapport throughout the North between Wallace and big city police officers, who regard themselves as a much-maligned and beleaguered minority.

Your Money's Worth

Meaning of Proposed Social Security Hikes

BY SYLVIA PORTER

What would the huge bundle of proposed Social Security benefit boosts and liberalizations now being debated by Congress mean to you, the American employee who is contributing to the Social Security system today?

A central point, almost hidden in the new proposed web of benefit and tax hikes is that only those of you who are earning more than $6,600 a year would be affected before 1969 by the hikes the President is asking to finance the multi-billion dollar package. Today, only about one in five workers is earning an amount above $6,

600. Thus, the vast majority of workers and their employers would continue under today's maximum contribution of $21.45 a month each.

The 1969 Changes
In 1969 — still two years away — today's law will hike the monthly Social Security contribution of the $6,600 a year worker to $21.20. The proposed law would hike this worker's contribution only an extra 55 cents to $24.75 per month. And in 1973, the ultimate maximum for this worker would be $27.50 under the proposed law instead of today's scheduled maximum of $26.60.

In short, the average employee would barely be affected, even over the long range, by the tax hike now being considered.

However, for those of you in higher income brackets, the new Social Security tax bite would be definitely discernible:

If you are now and expect to remain in the $10,800 and up income bracket, your monthly Social Security contribution would jump next year from the scheduled $21.45 to a new maximum of $25.35. It would ultimately go to a ceiling of $45.00 from 1973 on, compared with the $26.68 due under present law. Translated into yearly totals, the maximum combined employer-employee S.S. tax would ultimately rise from today's scheduled maximum of $640.32 to $1,080 and with Medicare taxes added, this ultimate maximum would be $1,252.80.

These higher contributions, though, also would help finance your own higher benefits later. Under today's law, the top monthly Social Security benefit you as an individual worker can ever expect is $168. This sum will become less and less realistic in terms of your actual living costs than it already is — and today no one is yet eligible to receive this maximum. But under the proposed law, this maximum rate would rise to $288 a month. And benefits for retired couples, widows and disabled workers also would climb in the years ahead.

Thus, as Congress debates the size and financing of benefit rises, you and I must weigh our future contribution rates against our future expected benefits. For the higher-income workers the President's package would mean an increase in contributions of as much as 60 per cent in the years ahead. But the total proposed benefit protection, the Social Security Administration calculates, would rise as much as 71 per cent. There is unquestionably a "breaking point" for our Social Security contributions and we well may be approaching it. But this year's suggested Social Security tax won't put us at that point, even though any tax hike is a paycheck bite, no matter how it's sugar-coated. What's more, economic common sense demands that we increase the elderly's benefits: for a full 38 per cent of Social Security beneficiaries today, Social Security benefits alone keep them above the poverty line. The Sheriff's Office as a Career

A public hearing before a State Senate committee last week started a resolution to remove the constitutional limit of two consecutive terms for sheriffs on its second trip through the legislature. If it gains the expected legislative approval, the constitutional change will go before the voters in an April referendum along with the important questions of establishing a legal state debt limit and providing for four-year terms for governor.

Four times since 1921, Wisconsin voters have said, in effect, that their forefathers had a good idea when they included in the constitution a limit of two consecutive terms for sheriff out of concern for the powers which the county chief law enforcement officer might build for himself. This year, the referendum is given a better chance of acceptance.

But it will be important to keep a balance of the reasons set forth in the campaign for the change. At its Green Bay convention, the organization of county sheriffs voted to provide $15,000 as part of this advertising campaign.

The partisan importance of the office of sheriff was reflected at the convention as Republican Gov. Warren Knowles described the two-term limit as "unfair and (serving) no useful purpose" and as Democratic Atty. Gen. Bronson La Follette said "the two-term limit is contrary to what law enforcement needs, professionalization."

Of the two statements, Gov. Knowles was closer to the mark. partisan considerations aside. It may be that the fear of sheriffs building political machines to run counties is no longer as valid as it was when the constitution was written. But doing away with the two-term limitation does not automatically mean that professionalism is going to come to the office of county sheriff.

The office of sheriff is going to remain a political office, a fact that stands in stark contrast to police professionalism which must include isolation from politics. In fact, the incumbency of sheriffs for longer than four years could turn out to be a handicap to better county police organization in urban counties.

In time, if Wisconsin urban counties are to function for the responsibilities which are being thrust upon them, the legislature is going to have to create a structure for county or metropolitan police with career officers at the top free from the partisan ballot. A sheriff who can build political support over two terms to be re-elected again and again does not automatically become a professional police department director. Neither does one swept into office on the coattails of a one-sided election for governor or president.

Removal of the two consecutive term limit for sheriff may be an improvement for rural counties and may be better than the county law enforcement system Wisconsin has now. But it isn't going to be much better.

LBJ's New Image

President Johnson presented a new look at his press conference last week. But unfortunately for the "credibility" of his image, information about the December negotiations between the United States and Hanoi appeared in the newspapers the next day.

The President took a moderate point of view in his conference and in answer to questions. He said he is kept awake at night because of his failure to end the war. He reiterated his plea for "unconditional discussions." He warned that despite all the efforts there was no encouragement he could offer that any serious consideration of such discussions was underway in North Vietnam.

This may be exactly true. Although there are now reports that last December it appeared as if Hanoi was getting ready for the conference table and that only the American bombing raids on Hanoi itself cancelled the opportunity, the report may have been optimistic. It well may be that this carrot and stick technique, so overworked by the Americans, is also a favorite of the North Vietnamese. If we had not bombed so close to Hanoi, they might have found another excuse to postpone negotiations.

Spain Trades With Cuba

There would appear to be no more unconvincing enemies than Franco's Spain and Castro's Cuba.

Spain is evolving slowly from the Fascist regime which it won after a bitter civil war against a force heavily supported by Communists. It does not recognize most Communist governments or trade with them. Cuba is loudly Communist with as strong ties as it can muster to both Moscow and Peking and issues regular diatribes against imperialism, fascism and capitalism.

But all of this does not at all affect the growing trade across the Atlantic between Spain and Cuba.

In 1962 Spanish exports to Cuba were only $1.3 million. In 1965 they amounted to $34.4 million. They are expected to double that amount for 1966 hitting somewhere around $70 million. In the last two years Spain's relations with Cuba have meant a favorable balance of trade for Spain. Imports in 1965 amounted to $34.2 million.

So far the United States, which berates other countries about helping Fidel, hasn't complained. Last year Spain built and delivered four or five freighters to Cuba which have been responsible in great part for the increased trade. Other sales primarily were heavy trucks, industrial machinery and electrical equipment. In return Cuba sends to Spain mostly sugar and tobacco.

Radicalism Called Pernicious

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton
Crescent for Feb. 9, 1867.

The monstrous doctrine that supreme authority is vested in the legislative branch of the government; that the judiciary must be overthrown or remodeled; the Executive pronounced when any dares to pronounce condemnation upon the mad theories of the lunatic minds who assumed to wield the destinies and dictate the ideas of government; and that the minority, in point of numbers, enjoy no rights, prerogative or privilege save as a boon from the Robespierrean majority, is having its influence in unsettling the finances of this country and creating a feeling of insecurity throughout business circles everywhere.

Radicalism run rampant tends to the destruction of all government except a government of might. It has no settled policy.

With it, to-day the men who dare to doubt the infallibility of the Executive is doomed to banishment, imprisonment, or the tender mercies of a brutalized mob. Tomorrow, he who respects and obeys the judicial system and its decisions as the highest court in the land, or dares stand up in defense of the wise, constitutional and eminently patriotic course of the President in sustaining the Union of States, is branded as worthy of only a felon's doom!

White House, Federal Reserve Fencing Over Monetary Policy

BY JOSEPH KRAFT

WASHINGTON — The general feature of the President's budget is that it will be putting more money into the economy than it takes out — hence the deficit. The special feature of the budget is that, as a means of sustaining prosperity, it relies chiefly on lower interest rates.

Kraft

It is an easy-money budget. Its success, accordingly, depends to a large extent on the by no means easy relationship between the White House and the Federal Reserve Board. And the fencing between the President and the chairman of the Fed is already under way.

Virtually all aspects of the budget express its easy-money bias. The President's message itself is only seven sentences long before there occurs a reference to "lower interest rates."

But the main indication of the President's purpose is in his request for a temporary 6 per cent surtax on corporate and individual incomes. The purpose of the requested tax increase is not the direct purpose of sopping up purchasing power in order to curtail inflationary pressures. On the contrary, the speculation is that the economy may lose so much steam in the next few months that by spring the President (and Congress) will forget all about raising taxes.

New board members of the Appleton Community Fund were Harold Adams, president, Gerald Hoffmann, Mrs. Robert Ducklow, Bruce Purdy, Stuart Koch and William Cherkasky. Adams succeeded Victor I. Minahan, who remained on the board in an ex-officio capacity.

Miss Edna Wiegand was to sing "The Solitary Singer" by Allen at the Town and Gown meeting at the home of Mrs. W. A. McConagha.

Hostesses for the annual meeting of Mt. Olive Ladies Aid Society included Mrs. Erwin Klues, chairman, Mrs. Theodore Bruehl, Mrs. Ed Drier, Mrs. Bertha Maesch, Mrs. Milton Schulze, Mrs. Max Kneip, Mrs. Edward Lemke and Mrs. Karl Jahnke.

CREDIT SQUEEZE ENDS

The true purpose of the request is to show the Federal Reserve Board that if necessary the President has the determination to keep purchasing and budgetary deficits in check. That showing is supposed to encourage the board in the steps it has recently been taking to ease up on its tight money policy of the last year.

As the President put it in his budget message, without the requested tax increase there would be a risk "of choking off the much-desired move toward lower interest rates by placing too much of our stabilization effort on the shoulders of monetary policy."

So far, it must be said, the Federal Reserve Board has been co-operating with the President in magnificent fashion. About six weeks ago, it ended the tight money policy.

Since then, by buying up bank holdings on the open market, it has been pouring money into the economy. As the stock market rise indicates, there is no longer a credit squeeze. It can be said on behalf of the Fed that probably no central bank anywhere has ever turned around so fast.

But will the co-operation continue? The question is pertinent for there are in sight several developments to which the Fed is particularly sensitive.

WAGE INCREASES DUE

First of all there is the prospect of a round of wage increases well in excess of the federal guideline figure. The President has tried to foster union moderation by keeping in reserve recommendations for new laws to regulate labor. Still, if the wage rises come and, with them the specter of inflation, it is a big question whether the Fed will be willing to maintain easy money.

Secondly, there is the danger that lower interest rates in this country might precipitate an outflow of funds to other countries, thus aggravating the balance of payments problem. The administration has tried to damp down that danger by arranging, at a special meeting of finance ministers in Britain last weekend, to concert the winding down of interest rates with France, Britain and Germany. Still, if the payments balance tilts sharply against this country, it is again a question whether the Fed will be willing to maintain easy money.

These questions are sharpened because the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, William McChesney Martin, has recently been at pains to underline the Fed's claim to be independent from the rest of the federal government. That is the meaning of his indication to the President that when his term expires in April he would be prepared to quit, but might be prevailed upon to stay.

This kind of fencing will probably go on for months. My guess is that in the end the board will go along with the White House. But the mere fact of the fencing raises for me new doubts about how independent the Fed ought to be.

Rabbis Call Rockwell Appearance Insulting

Editor, Post-Crescent:

We were appalled and dismayed to learn that the self-proclaimed Nazi George Lincoln Rockwell will speak on the campus of Lawrence University on February 8th.

According to press reports, student leaders and university officials have indicated that under the American principle of "freedom of speech" Rockwell should be accorded the privilege of enunciating his views, and the university is doing nothing more than fostering freedom of expression.

We deem it incumbent to point out that Rockwell's scheduled address at Lawrence University does not involve freedom of speech, but license — the license to stir up man against his fellow man; license to incite to violence and brutality because of race or creed; license to inspire rebellion against the Constitution of the United States and our American way of life; license to disturb the peace and to foment hatred, strife, and bigotry — the very diabolical tools which Hitler and his Nazi party utilized so successfully, unfor-

Mrs. Proxmire Writes Knowingly on Problem Of Campaign Finances

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Among the women who are familiar figures on the state political scene, one of the most experienced and observant is Mrs. Ellen Proxmire, wife of the senior United States senator from Wisconsin.

Wyngaard

One of Mrs. Proxmire's avocations is writing about public affairs and her impressions on politics and government. Her latest contribution, published in The Progressive magazine which is produced in Madison, is worthy of the serious attention of any citizen, or any politician, who professes concern about the integrity of the political process in the state and the country.

Mrs. Proxmire relates that she has had 10 years of experience, since his original election in 1957, in the "agony" of helping to raise money for her politician husband in his successive campaigns. And then she relates some of the intimate details of that travail that most politicians would probably want to keep secret.

Sen. Proxmire was re-elected in 1964, and with a reasonably impressive margin, as it turned out. But his wife discloses that they left nothing to chance and began as early as 1962 to make their plans for achieving the goal of a $200,000 campaign fund they calculated would be a "minimum" requirement.

AND THEN A DEBT

The senator's helpmate doesn't say that they actually attained the goal. The presumption is that they did not, for she goes on to lament that after his election was assured, they discovered a substantial debt that took some time to liquidate. Not until the middle of the following year, three years after the careful money drive started, was the 1964 campaign effort fully paid.

Knowles Push Likely to Save Realignment Plan

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — Gov. Warren P. Knowles as leader of the Republican state administration has given a strong push to the bipartisan plan for the reorganization of the state government which probably would have faltered dangerously without his positive endorsement.

After avoiding the topic for several months, Knowles Monday waded into the bitter fight about total reshuffling of state administrative agencies with a declaration that the Kellett Commission plan offers a "golden opportunity" to achieve what has been sought repeatedly over more than a score of years.

Powerful state boards and commissions are boiling with indignation about the reorganization blueprint, and some of them had openly hoped that the governor would avoid endorsing it.

Possible Amendments

Knowles was emphatic in his endorsement of the general plan for reshuffling, into a simpler and more effective structure of government more suited to modern needs. But he reserved judgment on some of the amendments that may be proposed as the measure passes the skeptical scrutiny of the legislature.

As an experienced legislative politician, he said, in effect, he is aware that any bill rarely is approved without some changes and that an issue as complex and controversial as the Kellett plan is unlikely to emerge unscathed.

But the governor also indicated that he is not impressed by the ferocity of the resistance of the state conservation commission, which has enlisted a formidable list of private sports and conservation organizations to support its angry protests against consolidation with the department of resource development into a new department of natural resources.

The 1965 legislature, Knowles emphasized, in a bi-partisan vote and with general public support, expressly directed the Kellett Commission to bring in a plan for a unified department of natural resources.

While the fate of the Kellett Commission plan remains doubtful, the Knowles decision to endorse it and to make it a part of his administration's legislative program gives it a significant boost. Both houses of the legislature are under the control of the governor's Republican Party and will be loath to oppose his views.

In his 11 years as secretary, Morgenthau served as chief financial officer of an administration that spent more money than any other up to its time and that intervened more actively in the financial markets of the world than all of its predecessors together.

National expenditures were $7.1 billion a year when Morgenthau took office at the height of the depression. The national debt was $27 billion and taxes were yielding $3 billion.

When he resigned, expenditures were at a World War II high of $93.7 billion a year. The national debt had climbed above $238 billion as a result of deficit spending during the depression and the costliest war in history. Taxes were netting $46 billion a year.

Governor Supports Reorganization Plan

any commitment to any presidential candidate."

Knowles' written statement of support for the Kellett bill precedes a legislative hearing Friday. The controversial measure faces mixed prospects, particularly because of strong opposition from conservation groups and from entrenched state agencies.

The governor said, "There undoubtedly may be some basic changes in the bill. But after 20 years of talking about this problem, I hope this legislature will have the courage to come up with an answer."

He referred by name to the State Conservation Commission's opposition to a merger with the department running the water pollution control program and replied, "I say, 'Let the chips fall where they may.'"

Knowles said "labor pains" were to be expected in any reorganization attempt and added, "There is always a RC factor, or resistance to change. This is obvious in regard to the bureaucracy in Madison."

However, Knowles took no precise stand on the conservation merger, the health-welfare combination, or other proposed changes.

"I'm not in a position to support specifics in a bill that is still subject to legislative scrutiny," said Knowles.

At the federal level, Knowles called upon the state's congressmen to "unite in a vigorous effort to restore Wisconsin's authorized highway aids."

The outback by the Johnson administration was meant to combat inflation stemming from the Vietnam war. But Knowles said the road money came from special gasoline tax funds and was not involved in military financing.

"We don't think it's going to work and we think it will be reconsidered," said Knowles.

The governor spoke in response to a question, but he appeared anxious to clarify his position. He noted that Sen. Jerris Leonard, R-Bayside, majority leader in the Senate and chairman of the universities subcommittee of the State Building Commission evidently favors a 1970 opening of full-fledged universities.

He added that forthcoming public hearings on planning for the new campuses will "clear the air" and that "the Legislature will have to make the decision."

similar losses in the Korean War.

Russell said he and his committee knew the losses were nearly double those of the previously posted 622. He indicated he saw no need for any new investigation of the matter except for a possible inquiry into tightening security.

Human Casualties

But Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, called the Pentagon's announcement "shocking" and "fantastic." As a supporter of President Johnson's war course, he said it was the kind of "half-truth" that failed to sustain the administration's position that it has been disclosing the full extent of war losses.

"It raises the question of the credibility of the announcements of the number of casualties in Vietnam," he said. "It seems to me that we could well ask what the true figure is on casualties."

Pentagon spokesmen said military intelligence opposed revealing aircraft losses to the enemy but that about three-fourths of the losses in cumulative form Monday had been mentioned individually in past communications anyway.

U. S. Friendship Will be Valued, Erhard Says

Ex-West German Chancellor Looks At New Government

By CARL HARTMAN

BONN, Germany (AP) — On the eve of his 70th birthday ex-Chancellor Ludwig Erhard predicts that his successor will have to value West Germany's friendship with the United States just as much as he did.

Erhard was ousted from office two months ago, but he has no intention of becoming the forgotten man of West German politics.

"During my term of office," he told The Associated Press, "the government gave Vietnam material and financial aid but not military aid. A people like the Germans, who once lost their freedom, must also give moral support to the United States which has been ready to accept great sacrifices for the maintenance of freedom in the world. This support does not involve taking a position on the management of American policy as such."

Erhard sees no decisive change in the foreign policy of his successor, Kurt Georg Kiesinger, except for nuances of speech.

"The previous government also made relations with France its business, though it could not follow the ideas of the French president in all points," he observed.

"The previous government also made continuous efforts to normalize its relations with the Soviet Union. The best evidence is that I succeeded in getting a firm commitment from Nikita Khrushchev to visit Bonn. Unfortunately it could not take place because of his fall."

"Cultivating relations with the United States always lay especially close to my heart, but I have the impression that the present government must set just as great a value on friendship with the United States."

For his birthday Saturday

Ludwig Erhard

Erhard is holding open house at his home on the Tegernsee, a lake set handsomely among the mountains not far from Munich. He turned down an official celebration in Bonn, preferring to welcome whatever faithful friends want to make their way through the snowy Bavarian Alps.

But he means to spend a lot of time in Bonn.

Konrad Adenauer has not made a speech in the Bundestag since he quit as chancellor. Erhard means to speak.

"If I feel the need, it could become a duty," he explains.

He is giving up the chairmanship of his party but will not say if he will run for the Bundestag again in 1969.

He grows embittered when he talks of the "ambitious people" who brought his downfall.

He does not identify them,

Doomed By What You Say?

Your talk betrays you!

A noted publisher in Chicago reports a simple technique of everyday conversation which can pay you real dividends in social and business advancement and works like magic to give you poise, self-confidence and greater popularity.

According to this publisher, many people do not realize how much they could influence others simply by what they say and how they say it. In business, at social functions, or even in casual conversations, there are ways to make a good impression every time you talk.

To acquaint the readers of this paper with the easy-to-follow rules for developing skill in every day conversation, the publishers have printed full details of their interesting self-training method in a new book, "Adventures in Conversation"—mailed free to anyone who requests it. Living Standards Up in Last Decade

Families in the four-county did a decade ago. The Tax Foundation study shows just how much more they come a family must have these were 10 years ago, in spite of days to stay even with the 1956 the way taxes and the cost of living have zoomed upward.

A study by the Tax Foundation shows average family income in the four counties has increased sufficiently for residents to live better than they or 17.9 per cent more, to equalize.

The $10,000 family must have $11,764, an increase of 17.6 per cent to be as well off as before. The average gain in the United States was 40.1 per cent in the period while in the state of Wisconsin the rise was 39.2 per cent. Average gains in each of the four counties were above both the state and national averages, offsetting any loss suffered through inflation.

According to data compiled by the Standard Rate and Data Service, most families have more than made up for the inroads caused by higher prices and bigger taxes and are living in better style than they did previously.

Paper Firm Names Head Of Marketing

John J. Yankoski, formerly of Newark, Del., has been appointed marketing manager of Fox River Paper Corporation as of Jan. 9. Harley O. Barney, vice president for sales, made the announcement.

Yankoski

Yankoski is a 1960 graduate of Goldey Beacom Business College, Wilmington, and received a degree in business administration at Drexel Institute of Technology, Philadelphia, in 1965. He will complete work on his master's degree in marketing in June.

Yankoski was formerly employed by All American Engineering Co., National Vulcanized Fibre Co., and Ludlow Textile Products, all in Wilmington, Del.

He has served with the United States Marine Corps, is married and the father of two daughters.

Winneshago Highest

Winneshago County has the highest average income per family at $8,196, a rise of 43.2 per cent over the $5,724 average of 10 years ago.

Outagamie County average net family income rose from $5,551 to $7,942 in the past year, an increase of 43.1 per cent.

Waupaca's percentage increase was even greater, although averages are lower. Average family income for Waupaca County was estimated at $6,207 compared with $4,254 for 10 years ago, an increase of 45.9 per cent.

Calumet County reported an astonishing 66.0 per cent increase, now surpassing Waupaca County in average family income. Calumet totals are $6,668 per family, compared with $4,018 for 10 years ago.

Gains Needed

As for the current year, further gains in income will be needed, both for the working man and for his employer, if their purchasing power is to be maintained at its present level.

As 1967 got under way, they were faced with bigger social security taxes, further inflation and a possible increase in federal income taxes.

Also under Tax Foundation scrutiny in the study were state and local taxes and the extent to which they have grown in recent years.

Gain 7 Per Cent in Year

State Users Can Call Most Phones in World

The number of telephones in the world as of Jan. 1 stood at 195.3 million, said R. C. Van Sistine, Appleton manager for the Wisconsin Telephone Co. And Wisconsin telephone users could place calls to 188 million, or 96 per cent, of the world's total.

Van Sistine said these were some of the highlights from the 1966 edition of "The World's Telephones," an annual compilation of world-wide phone statistics published by the American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

The total at the start of 1966 was an increase of 12.8 million telephones from a year earlier, or 7 per cent. It was the largest numerical gain ever recorded in a single year.

During the year ending Jan. 1, 1966, calls between the United States and overseas points totaled 8.1 million. This was 26 per cent more than in the previous year.

The U.S. leads the world in the number of telephones with 93.7 million, or 48 per cent of the total. Japan, with 14 million telephones, ranks second, followed by the United Kingdom, 10.7 million; West Germany, 8.8 million; the U.S.S.R., 7.9 million (estimated), and Canada, 7.5 million.

Canadians retained the distinction of having the most conversations per person with 635.6, but the United States was closing the gap with 620 per person. In the 1965 edition, Canada led, 623-591. Copies of the A. T. and T. statistics booklet are available for reference at the local telephone office, Van Sistine said.

The report shows the Appleton exchange with 36,839 phones serving a population group of 72,000, an average of 50.9 phones for each 100 population.

'Healthy But Sick' Tourism Study Set

16-Man Committee to Probe Possibility Of Developing Schools in Recreation

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON—An all-out campaign to bring the sophisticated learning of the college campus to the often backward tourist industry of Wisconsin's main streets and backwoods is underway.

The drive will be headed by a special 16-man steering committee of state government and education leaders and representatives of the state's private recreational industry. Aim of the campaign will be the resolution of the illnesses of Wisconsin's "healthy but sick" tourist industry through intensive focus of the higher educational resources of the state.

The committee was created at a special meeting called by the Board of Regents of State Colleges, in response to a request by Regent David Bennett of Portage, who has echoed the calls of Lt. Gov. Jack Olson for intensive state help for the recreational business.

Olson at the meeting pointed to the industry's billion dollar a year impact on state economy, and predicted that within ten years the tourist-centered industries of the state would replace agriculture as Wisconsin's biggest dollar earning business.

Represented on the committee are spokesmen for the state's private colleges and universities, the state vocational school system, the state universities and the University of Wisconsin, the state Conservation and Resource Development Departments, and private recreational trade and business associations from across the state.

Aimed at providing "educational responses to the needs of the industry," the group emphasized the development of a department or school of recreational management at the meeting, but stated explicitly that its emphasis will be wide-ranging, covering fields as diverse as methods of better public relations to means of securing new hard to find financial backing for private tourist development.

Four-Pronged Problem

The attack on the problems will be primarily four-pronged, the group agreed. Investigated will be the possibilities of creating a four year course in recreational management, similar to hotel administration schools at Michigan State and Cornell Universities, at one or more campuses of the UW or state universities. Also studied will be the establishment of a two year course of study on the mid-management level, to be created at state technical institutes.

A one year course in vocational skills such as baking and other related occupations will be investigated for use in local vocational schools, and special short courses of intensive study will be considered for use by the UW extension division. The latter approach would bring educational possibilities into recreational areas, and in some cases, into resorts.

The group of 30 heard Prof. Isadore V. Fine of the UW school of business relate findings made in a special study conducted in cooperation with the state resource development department.

Healthy But Sick

"The major finding of this research is that we have a major healthy but sick industry," Fine said. "It is healthy in that it is big, but sick in that it is in the hands of unqualified, inefficient people."

Major reasons for the financial difficulties of the tourist industry, he said, include the lack of business management training of many recreational managers, a lack of young, professional people in the business, and a tendency toward perpetuation of past, untrained business practices through family management of resort industries.

He urged the possible establishment of a special two year, junior college aimed at training professional personnel for the recreation industry, saying that placing the program in vocational schools would "downgrade" its image.

More Research

"I don't think the university wants to get into this particular aspect and I do think that we have the capability of doing a lot more research," he said, speaking for himself.

State university officials pointed to the existence of several recreational industry related programs at Platteville, LaCrosse and Stout Universities, and Fine said that such work is being offered in uncoordinated programs scattered throughout more than 20 UW programs.

Possible coordination of such course work will be one goal of the steering committee.

Elected honorary chairman of the group was Olson, and Bennett will lead the steering committee's work.

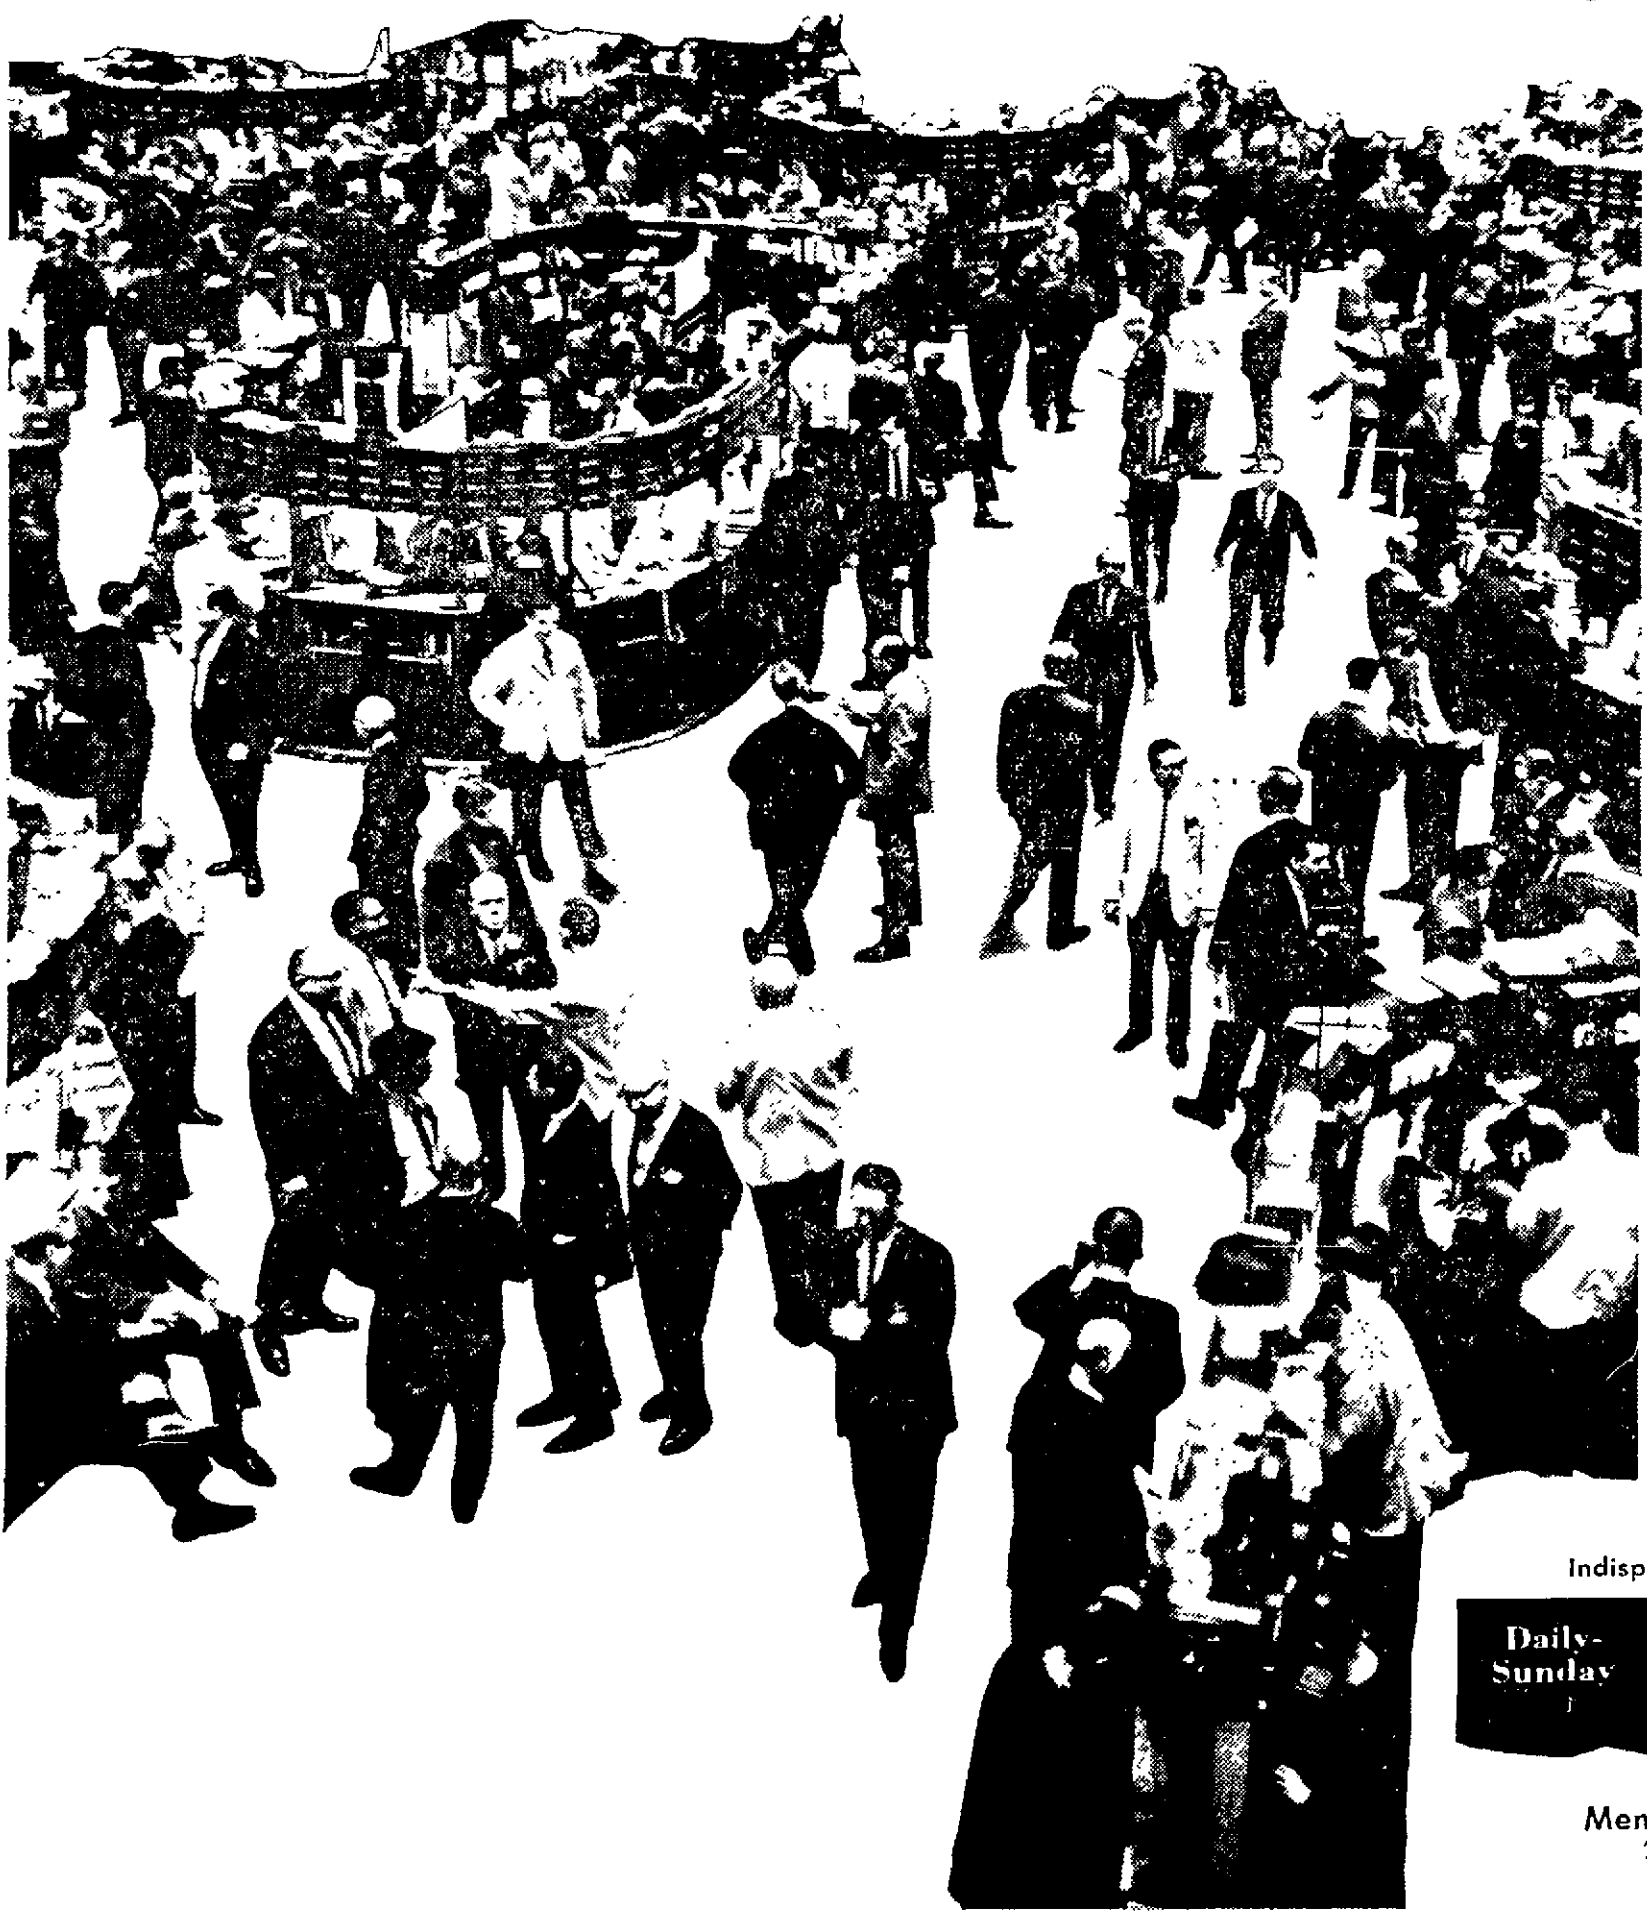

Hobby Club Contest Winners Announced

There are only three area winners in the Young Hobby Club contest for Jan. 25, according to Columnist Cappy Dick.

They are David Green, 10, and Paul Rehman, 10, both of Appleton, and Lynn Hietpas, 10, route 1, Kaukauna.

The prize of five Spanish castle stamps will be sent to each of the winners within two weeks.

Kennedy Aides Ignored LBJ

cide, so far as I'm concerned."

The remark so infuriated them, Manchester wrote, that they determined to brook no further delay in removing the coffin.

They signalled the Secret Service agents and members of the Kennedy party to prepare to leave. Then they wheeled the coffin into the corridor. As they started to push through the crowd in the corridor, a melee began. Manchester wrote that these words were exchanged—"These two guys say you can't go."

"One side," Larry said curtly.

"Ken said, 'Get the hell over. We're getting out of here.'"

Manchester wrote that some 40 persons became tangled in the struggle. Some were simply trying to get out of the way as the coffin was propelled to the hospital exits.

Because of this delay, and for fear that the authorities in Dallas might make a second attempt to hold Kennedy's body, the Kennedy aides wanted a quick takeoff from Love Field.

McHugh raced to the cockpit and ordered the pilot of Air Force One to start the jet engines.

Meanwhile, arrangements had been made to administer the oath of office to Johnson while the plane was on the ground.

After somehow passing each other several times in the corridor—resulting in orders and counterorders to the pilot—McHugh and Kilduff came face to face.

"Six Foot Texan"

The book says Kilduff told McHugh the plane would not leave until Johnson had been sworn in. McHugh mistakenly replied that Johnson was on the "back-up plane."

Kilduff retorted, "Then you go back and tell that six-foot Texan he isn't Lyndon Johnson. We're not going... until the President has been sworn."

McHugh pointed toward the rear compartment and said, "I have only one president and he's lying back in that cabin."

This remark, Manchester wrote, ended McHugh's hopes for another star and, "indeed, even his days in uniform were numbered." McHugh retired from the Air Force a few months later.

Johnson had discussed the question of being sworn in immediately with several persons on the airplane. Then he telephoned Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy in Washington. Exactly what passed between them in the several conversations that took place is not clear.

The President gave a statement to the Warren Commission on July 10, 1964, which said:

"Before Taking Off"

"As I remember, our conversation was interrupted to allow the attorney general to come back on the line. He said that the oath should be administered to me immediately, before taking off for Washington, and that it should be administered by a judicial officer of the United States. Shortly thereafter, the deputy attorney general, Mr. Nicholas Katzenbach, dictated the form of oath to one of the secretaries aboard the plane."

Manchester's report is this:

"Robert Kennedy met Air Force One in Washington and went immediately to find his sister-in-law. She told him that Johnson had said in Dallas that the attorney-general advised taking the oath immediately."

"The attorney general was startled. There must be some misunderstanding, he said. He had made no such suggestion," Manchester wrote.

The question is academic, of course, except that the time consumed before and after the ceremony in the plane accentuated the angry feelings of the Kennedy party.

Join in Ceremonies

Johnson had asked a friend, Federal Judge Sarah Hughes, to administer the oath. There was a delay until she could be found and then hasten to Love Field.

The vice president said he would be glad to have everyone on the plane join him in the ceremony. He particularly wanted Mrs. Kennedy to be in the photograph to be taken of it.

Manchester wrote, "In the end, she appeared, but the decision was to be hers. She understood the symbols of authority, the need for some semblance of national majesty after the disaster, and she came."

Although a wide-angle lens was used for the photograph of the swearing-in, Manchester said "it did not record the presence of a single male Kennedy aide."

After the ceremony, the book says, the President and Mrs. Johnson conducted Mrs. Kennedy to a seat in the forward compartment and asked her to sit with them. She did so, briefly. Then Manchester wrote, she excused herself and went to the rear compartment.

There she found O'Brien, O'Donnell, McHugh and David Powers standing near the coffin. For the first time since the death of her husband, Manchester wrote, she burst into uncontrollable sobbing.

"Flatly Refused"

The author said that Johnson twice asked O'Donnell and O'Brien to sit with him during the flight but they "flatly refused."

Mrs. Kennedy addressed Johnson as "Lyndon," quickly corrected herself and said she had meant to say, "Mr. President." She said she would never again call him by his first name. He replied, according to Manchester, "Honey, I hope you'll call me that for the rest of your life."

Kennedy's personal Bible had been used for the oath-taking. At the foot of the ramp, an unidentified man persuaded Judge Hughes to give it to him along with the card on which the oath had been typed.

"...she surrendered them, assuming he was some sort of security man. He wasn't."

"The last item of Kennedy memorabilia to be left in Dallas, his most cherished personal possession, was his Bible," Manchester wrote.

Federal Judge Sarah T. Hughes, left, administers the oath of office to President Johnson as Mrs. Johnson and President Kennedy's widow look on. William

Right Foot Designed For Inserting in Mouth

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

If you're the kind of person who is always putting his foot in his mouth, you'd probably be more comfortable if you used your right foot for this purpose.

In nine out of 10 people it is smaller than the left foot.

Some psychologists say that your eyes get wider the harder you think. But it has been my experience that many business executives close their eyes when they're thinking. At least they claimed they were thinking.

Few people love their homeland more than the Japanese. In 99 years, only 1,210,000 have emigrated, and most of them went to Brazil or the United States. Last year only 600 migrated. A further oddity: The entire continent of Africa has only nine permanent Japanese residents.

Engineering Committee To Discuss Courses for Fox Valley Extension

The Fox Valley Extension Education Advisory Committee will meet at 5:30 p.m. next Monday to discuss current and future courses to be offered through the engineering center for postgraduate and professional development at the University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Center.

Attending the meeting at Alex's Supper Club, 2318 S. Oneida St., will be C. L. Brisley, director of Milwaukee's Engineering Center, and David P. Hartmann, assistant director of the statewide program outside Milwaukee.

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

Yes. Maleness and femaleness are matters of heredity. Masculinity and femininity are learned. As women become more like men, ideas and concepts of masculinity change, and this is a kind of "de-masculinization."

One of the tasks of our generation is to develop sound ideas of both masculinity and femininity that do not require the subjugation of either sex. When an age is changing as fast as ours is, there is bound to be uncertainty of sex role. What we need to do is to work out sex roles, not to denounce or bewail changes that, in many respects, are highly desirable.

Should learning be rewarded? Yes— No—

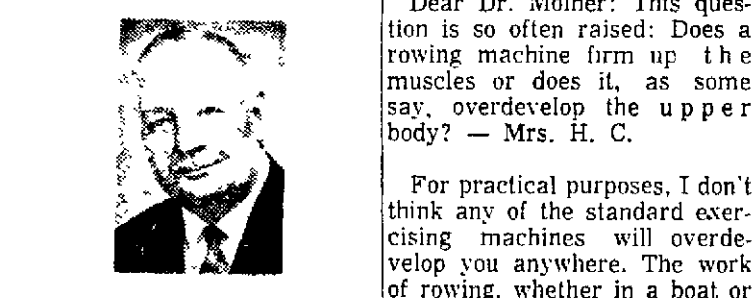

Yes. A person remembers better if he gets an immediate reward for what he has learned. This does not have to be like the fish that is tossed the trained seal every time he gets something right. Human beings of all ages are rewarded by a

It Doesn't Pay Patient To be Too Suspicious

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

I spend a good deal of time in this column explaining when various symptoms should send folks to the doctor.

Dear Dr. Molner: This question is so often raised: Does a rowing machine firm up the muscles or does it, as some say, overdevelop the upper body? — Mrs. H. C.

For practical purposes, I don't think any of the standard exercising machines will overdevelop you anywhere. The work of rowing, whether in a boat or a machine, involves a lot more than arms and shoulders. It's good exercise for the back, hip and legs.

The main point to remember is that exercise is exercise. Special exercises can be helpful in certain types of deformities, but for the average person, the choice of an exercise machine depends on what you find agreeable. Or just do calisthenics. The physical effort is what counts.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a boy, 17. I fear that I am going to lose my hair. Every older male relative is bald. Can baldness be hereditary? What can I do medically or through drugs to prevent it? — Scared.

Yes, baldness is very much a hereditary matter, and I think it is fruitless to worry about it. There is no reliable method of preventing this "male pattern baldness," and you achieve the least wear and tear on your nerves by accepting this fact. Either let the dome shine, or get a hair piece, but worrying about it is a waste of energy and may even hasten the hair loss.

Note to E.M.: Low thyroid can prevent conception, and thyroid medication taken by mouth often helps. Having only one ovary lessens the chance of pregnancy but does not make it impossible.

Headaches! You can beat them. Write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper for a copy of the booklet, "How To Tame Headaches." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

(Copyright 1967)

That's a puzzler, but it has happened to others. Sometimes all we can say is that some clarification or scarring has occurred, and leaves a mark, but the disease which caused it is all over, and it no longer possible to prove what the original ailment was.

The tests you have had obviously rule out tuberculosis, cancer (the "Pap" test) and others.

No, I don't think your doctor is concealing anything from you, and I suspect that you are worrying too much. It's natural for mothers of small youngsters to worry, though.

No doubt the doctor advised you to return after some specified interval for another X-ray which would be a wise precaution. If the marks on the lungs have not changed, then there

Women Protest To Governor About Prices

MADISON (AP) — A petition threatening to boycott grocery stores in protest of high food prices was delivered to Gov. Warren P. Knowles today by four Milwaukee area housewives.

The delegation from the Home Makers League for Lower Prices said its petition had 1,500 names on it.

Mrs. Ruth Ann Olson of Greendale, chairman of the League, said the group turned to Knowles after it was rebuffed by Milwaukee food store owners who refused to meet with the members.

"We haven't boycotted them, but they are asking for it," Mrs. Olson said of the food store operators.

GIs Want Words With Mini-Skirted Pin-Up

NEW YORK (AP) — Forty-four fighting men in Vietnam will get the address of the mini-skirted lassie they saw stepping daintily over a Manhattan snow-bank. Not only her address — pinup pictures too. And maybe even a visit from the gal herself.

It all goes back to last Dec. 27, when the snow in Manhattan wasn't quite as high as an elephant's eye, but high enough.

On that date, a New York Daily News photographer snapped a picture of an attractive girl making her way through the snows of Central Park South.

Came a letter to the newspaper from Sgt. Cesar A. Soriano, spokesman for the mortar platoon of Company D, 2nd Battalion, 1st Infantry, 196th Light Infantry Brigade, serving in Vietnam.

Hearts Throb

Soriano wrote: "Pertaining to your issue of Tuesday, Dec. 27, 1035 W. Elsie St. Parents of the young lady by the name of Tina Scala. We have been day after day admiring the picture of the above mentioned brunette."

Tina's photo, Soriano said, produced an overpowering urge on behalf of himself and his 43 buddies to correspond with her, thereby satisfying the many hearts that are throbbing in high gear."

Tina, actress sister of film star Gia Scala, commented Sunday: "I'm overwhelmed."

Delight showing in her blue-green eyes — the product of her Italian-Irish background, Tina added, "I'm so — how do you say it — it has really hit me."

To Send Pinups

Miss Scala, whose measurements are 36-24-36, said she would be happy to send letters and pinup shots to her fans in Vietnam. Moreover, she added, she would like to travel to the war zone with an entertainment troupe.

"I feel so sorry for the soldiers, there is so much suffering," she said.

Tina, who has five films to her credit, said, "I hope that I'll be their pinup girl and they'll follow my career. I am certainly following theirs."

Miss Roberta Scott, who lost her left leg to cancer three years ago, says she wants to go to Vietnam to encourage crippled American servicemen. The 24-year-old former beauty queen says, "I lost my leg and found my life." (AP Wirephoto)

Life Holds New Interests For Attractive Amputee

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — "The first time in my life I felt I was really living," she recalls. Nearly three years after her left leg was amputated, 24-year-old former beauty queen Roberta Scott is able to look back and say, "I lost my leg and found my life."

A tall, vivacious brunette, she has returned to college, drives a car, water skis and, as she puts it with a smile, dances a "one-legged jerk."

Help Servicemen

Now Miss Scott wants to go to Vietnam to help crippled American servicemen prepare for job discrimination or other handicaps to readjustment which they may encounter.

"But I will tell them even on one leg you can kick those doors down if you want to badly enough," says the former Miss Tulsa. "It takes only one leg to climb if you really want to get somewhere."

Help of Senator

So far, the Defense Department has ignored Miss Scott's request to go to Vietnam. Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., is working in her behalf.

In 1964, when she was a senior at Oklahoma State University, Miss Scott lost her leg to bone cancer.

"For the first time in my life I had to take stock of myself. I had to ask myself, 'Roberta, who do you want to be? Do you want to die or do you want to live?'"

House Ladies Ask Equal Time In Trim Gym

By TOM STEWART

WASHINGTON (AP) — One right that lady congressmen want to exercise is the right to exercise.

The problem: There is no women's locker room in the otherwise beautifully appointed House gym — perhaps because there are only 11 women in the House and only a fraction of those are exercise addicts.

Rep. Patsy Mink, a trim Democrat of about 40 from Hawaii, is one who would like the place turned over to the women members for just a few hours a week. But the men won't let them in.

"Their argument is that there are 423 of them and only 11 of us," she said.

The odds didn't faze Mrs. Mink Monday when she and two other congresswomen made a frontal attack. In the process they jarred gym director Herbert Boils.

Rep. Charlotte Reid, R-Ill., 53, leader of the raid, marched into a gym anteroom with Mrs. Mink and Rep. Catherine May, R-Wash., 52.

By Invitation

With straight faces, they said they were there in response to a letter inviting all members of the House to a new series of calisthenics classes.

Botts hurried them out, explaining they had already penetrated the defenses of the all-male establishment more than was proper.

"The men come out there in various stages of dress to make telephone calls and things," Botts said.

The ladies knew they were off limits but they said it was worth it to keep the pressure on for an "equal time" gym-sharing treaty.

"We were trying to make a point," said Mrs. Mink.

"We really felt sorry for the poor man," Mrs. Reid said, "but when we heard about that letter we couldn't resist it."

The chief feature of tournament bridge is that the same hand is played at more than one table. If you miss the key play at your table, your partner is sure to notice the difference in the score at another table and he will tell you what a fine play the other fellow made.

When this hand was played three months ago in the Team Selection tournament in Pittsburgh, the final contract was three spades at most tables. In most cases, moreover, West took three top hearts and then led a fourth heart.

Declarer ruffed the fourth heart with dummy's ace of trumps, led a spade to the queen and then returned a low club.

West could not afford to step up with the ace since then South would eventually discard a diamond on dummy's queen of clubs. When West played a low club, dummy won with the queen. South then led out the rest of his trumps.

Thrown In

Declarer, West and dummy each kept one club and two diamonds. South then led a club, throwing West into the lead. West had to return a diamond, and South let this ride around to his queen.

It all looked very normal at the time, but when all the scores were put up, each West saw that one East had managed to defeat the contract. Each West then casually mentioned the right play to his partner.

The successful East was Bob Hamman, Los Angeles expert. His partner, Lew Mathe, started with the king and queen of hearts, followed by the ace of hearts. Hamman trumped his partner's ace!

Hamman then returned a diamond, and South was dead. Whenever South led a club West could take the ace of clubs and a diamond trick to defeat the contract.

Daily Question

Dealer opens with one spade, which is followed by two passes. You are in the fourth seat, holding: S Q J 10 7 4, H 10 8 3 2, D Q 8 C K 5. What do you say?

Answer: Pass. Your partner must have a poor hand since he is sure to be short of spades and would have been glad to bid or double if he had reasonable strength. The dealer must have a good hand, and the hand belongs to his side. You will probably do better defending against spades than any other sort of contract.

Naim Society Plans Auction

An auctioneer will have charge of the white elephant sale planned by the Naim Society of the Fox Cities at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 26. The event will be held at the parish hall of St. Mary Catholic Church.

An item will be contributed by each member. After the sale, a card party is planned.

Every second Sunday of the month at 2:30 p.m. a bowling party is scheduled. Mrs. John Brown has charge of the activity.

The purpose of the Catholic Naim Conference is to provide companionship and entertainment to widows and widowers. Mrs. Bernard Spaay may be contacted for information.

Ann Advises Man's Failures More Than Case of Bad Luck

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A close friend of ours came under discussion last night and someone said, "I wonder what Ann Landers would say about this?" So I am writing to find out.

The man we were talking about is a gifted, warm-hearted guy who has a host of friends who adore him. Yet his whole life has been a litany of inadequacy and failure. He has had three catastrophic marriages and is headed for the fourth.

In spite of extraordinary ability, he has blown some choice professional opportunities. Colleagues with infinitely less talent remained safely ensconced in their jobs and this truly able guy winds up unemployed.

Can it be that he is, as some insist, just one of the world's unluckiest so-and-so's? I am beginning to wonder. What do you say?—Forum of The Twelve

Dear Forum: Each of us knows someone who fits the description — a warm-hearted, talented person with a messed up life.

Bad luck? I doubt it. Individuals who attract trouble and repeatedly fail, subconsciously set themselves up for trouble and failure. Their self-destructive drives propel them into situations they know will end in disaster. These severely neurotic people need professional counseling to gain insight into their self-destructive behavior. Those who reject help do so because self-examination is too painful.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My best friend is making the same mistake I made and I feel guilty because I introduced her to the rat.

Why don't women realize that when a man takes a girl to a motel room, he'll always tell her she's the most wonderful girl in the world and he wants to marry her? What else can he say, for heaven's sake? Even when the girl knows Mr. Rat has had dozens of other affairs she is convinced that he lied to the others but is truthful with her.

When my friend repeated the sweet nothings Mr. Rat whispered in her ear it was like seeing a movie for the second time. I knew what the next line would be.

foolish girl understand that she will end up in the junk heap with me and a dozen others?—X. Perience

Dear X: Save your breath to cool your soup, Lovey. Some people stubbornly refuse to take anybody's word for anything. Have you ever noticed the fingerprints around a sign that says "Wet Paint"?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When a man invites a woman to go on a motor trip with him because he enjoys her company, is it proper for him to expect her to share in the expenses for the car, meals and entertainment? Of course she would pay for her own room.

I am considering taking a trip with a man who has not mentioned expenses and I think we ought to have everything as well tell you that I am opposed to paying for anything other than my room because there's a romance involved and I don't believe in spoiling a man by letting him have everything for nothing. What do you say?—Rochester, N.Y.

Dear Roch: I don't know what you mean by "everything," but I think you'd better stay home.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Post-Crescent, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.
